Braved Death to Save Fallen Allied Fliers

By NITA BRANSON

Five years of endless privations under German occupation is scarcely the kind of background to make America credible to a French countess, even one born in Massachusetts.

Amazed at all the things one can secure here that have been "verbolen" for so long in France, the former Beatrice Bruce, a sister of Mrs. Irving Clark is still, after a month's sojourn in America, astounded at our way of living.

Although she says, "of course it is understandable," she can make an event of the buying of a pair of walking shoes and a whole pound of butter at one time.

The rationing of war days is still in effect in Paris and butter is doled out at one and two-third ounces per person each month. Bread, a black soggy mass of dough, comes in long loaves something like our Vienna bread. Each person is allowed one of these unappetizing loaves each month.

Glad War Behind Her.

But Madame Payen, as she is called in America, is glad the war is behind her; glad she was able to do her big part in helping win that war.

Thirty-four years ago, the American girl went to Paris to study history and archeology at the Sorbonne. Six years later she married the Count Payen Cordiei de La Londe, scion of a wealthy, old French family. She

BULL MARKET'S UPSET BLOCKS NEW FINANCING

Break Nips Budding Issues in Spite of Halt in Wall Street's Decline.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A decline of more than $5,000,000,000 in all stocks traded in the N. Y. stock exchange in the past two days—underscored by earlier market drops—today appeared to have placed at least a temporary block in the path of billions of dollars of new corporate financing.

Composite Value Drops.

A survey of 60 representative stocks disclosed their composite value had gone up instead of down on only five days during the past month. Last Tuesday the market tobogganed into its sharpest break in 16 years and in furious trading yesterday another low for the year was established. A late rally served only to reduce many of the losses.

Analysts have thrown in a complexity of "reasons" for the downswing, but a clear consensus has been lacking.

An underwriting syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb and company served notice today they planned to go ahead with a public offering of $30,000,000 in new Westinghouse Electric debentures.

On the other hand, postponements of proposed sales of new securities have been announced by the handful.

The trend for the last three months has been definitely downward.

Vet Sees No End To 4-Year Wait For Own Home

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 400 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

Four years is a long time to wait for anything one wants very badly. Paul Livensparger, today's veteran, waited that long to return to his home in Mansfield while he was serving as a mechanic with the Army Air Force.

Now Livensparger is beginning to feel that it may be just as long a wait before he will find the home that he and his family desire so very much.

He has been conducting his constant, still fruitless, search since last November, during the time he has off from his job at Westinghouse. In the meantime the Livenspargers, with their 18-months-old child, live with his parents at 183 North Linden road.

"We would buy a place, if we could find one within reason," said Livensparger, "but the way conditions are today, the whole housing situation seems snafu."

23 LOSE LIVES IN AIR CRACKUP

Two-Year-Old Infant's Only Survivor of Plane Crash.

ELKO, Nev.—(AP)—A two-engine transport plane of the Trans-Luxury Airlines, on a trans-continental flight, crashed three miles west of here early today with a probable death toll of 23.

A two-year-old boy was the only survivor, airline officials in San Francisco reported. One woman passenger was brought to a hospital here and died several hours after the tragedy.

The DC-3 plane crashed at about 2 a. m. (PST) a short distance from the Elko airport. The country is flat, although the rugged Ruby mountains are nearby.

The San Francisco airline spokesman said the cause was not immediately determined.

He said the craft was en route from New York to San Francisco.

Lausche Signs Old Age Pension Bill

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Governor Lausche signed into law today the new old age assistance bill raising the ceilings of pensions from $40 to $50 a month.

Lausche charged there were some provisions in the bill, passed by the last special session of the general assembly, which were "ambiguous," but said these provisions could be clarified by the regular session of the legislature which meets in January.

WCTU SEEKS CHANGE

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Consideration of a resolution seeking a "system of liquor control other than by the state" was on today's agenda of the 73rd annual W. C. T. U. state convention in Columbus.

SCHOOL HEAD ATTENDS MASS MEET TONIGHT

Superintendent to Discuss Western Avenue Problem With Aroused Parents.

Transfer of some of the fifth and sixth grade pupils from the Western Avenue school to one or more other schools in the western half of the city is the only solution to the overcrowding problem at the Western building, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said today.

Protests from parents in the Western district against a temporary half-day class schedule for fifth and sixth graders brought the crowded conditions in the elementary school to light yesterday, as city schools started the new term.

Supt. Miller said he would discuss the problem with aroused parents at a mass meeting at 7:30 p. m. today in the school building. The meeting had previously been set for the North Lake park pavilion.

The superintendent pointed out that transfer of pupils from the Western building to other schools must be approved by the board of education. The Brinkerhoff school is nearest the Western building.

Brinkerhoff Crowded.

The Brinkerhoff school, however, already has an increase of 11 pupils over last year's enrollment.

C. C. Secrist, principal of Brinkerhoff, said today that he has 57 pupils in the fifth grade, of which 18 are in a split fourth-fifth grade class, and the 39 other pupils in a regular fifth grade class. The sixth grade at Brinkerhoff has registrations for 36 pupils.

Commenting on the suggestions of several parents that a temporary building be set up for the overflowing Western classes, Miller said that there "are too many regulations that govern temporary buildings for public school use."

Pupils 'Won't Study'.

Protests from parents of the children, who were told to "study at home" yesterday afternoon, flowed into the superintendent's office.

Mothers of the children protested against the action, saying that "children would not study at home in the afternoon."

"We're paying for all-day instruction of our children and we want them to get a sound background in the fifth and sixth grades before they begin junior high school," one mother said.

Enrollment in the two classes at Western is up six pupils over last year, figures showed today. A total of 105 pupils are registered in the two grades.

STILL NO RAIN

Weatherman Says Drought to Continue.

There was little prospect today of any rain to end the late summer drought which has hit pastures and crops in the Mansfield area.

The weatherman said skies would remain clear tonight with considerable cloudiness and higher temperatures due tomorrow. It's likely to be cooler again by Saturday or Sunday, he added.

A high of 72 degrees was recorded yesterday while the mercury climbed to 74 at noon today. Last night's low was 48.

Predicts Linking Of Royal Families

LONDON — (INS) — The Communist "Daily Worker" revived reports today of an imminent marriage linking the British and Greek royal families.

The publication said: "There is talk of a possible marriage which is being planned between Elizabeth (heiress presumptive to the British throne) and one of the Glucksburg family by the name of King George II of Greece. Apart from George himself, other eligible males in the Glucksburg family are Princes Paul and Philip."

TOUGH DECISION: It's a tough decision for a fella to make when there are lessons to learn and no teacher about. Nine-year-old Rex Brock "models" the study-at-home system envisioned for fifth and sixth grade pupils of Western Avenue school because of overcrowded conditions. His playmates, Freddy Bair (left background) and Charles Gilbert, demonstrate the temptation to which Western avenue parents say their youngsters are likely to succumb if the order for half-day classes and study-at-home is carried out. The picture was taken at the W. S. Brock residence, 70 North Linden road.

SLAYBAUGH TO HEAD DRIVE

Committee Picked to Handle Community Fund Campaign.

The opening gun of the fall campaign of the Mansfield Community Fund was fired last night when the executive committee announced the appointment of W. E. Slabaugh, jr., Westinghouse departmental executive, as general chairman and manager of the drive.

Dates for the campaign have been set for Oct. 14 to 23 inclusive. The goal sought will not be decided until next week after the budget committee of 12 Mansfield citizens has considered the individual agency budgets, Mrs. Jane Williams, executive secretary of the fund, said today.

The campaign will be Slabaugh's first work with the Community Fund. He said today that he has already picked his campaign committee which will be made up of the heads of various divisions of the drive.

Committee Named.

Chairmen who will serve with Slabaugh are: Don G. Ogden and Howard Richards, as co-chairmen of the industrial division; C. J. Solomon, automobile division; Charles G. Tanzel, construction division; W. L. Miller and Msgr. R. C. Goebel, co-chairmen of the education division; Dwight P. Smith, financial division; Charles J. Stecker, food division; Howard M. ## Her Suit Was White-- She Sat on Lipstick

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(UP)—I can't call this dispatch "Murder at the Beauty Pageant," because Miss Cincinnati has not learned yet who caused her to sit down on a lipstick.

If she had been wearing a red bathing suit it wouldn't have been so bad. But there was Miss Cincinnati, known to the homefolks as Miss Lavonne Bond, waiting in the dressing room for her turn to walk briskly down the runways before the judges and seven thousand other goggle-eyed beauty lovers at the 25th annual Miss America contest.

Her suit was white. It was tight. It was designed, according to its manufacturer, to attract attention.

Miss Cincinnati was nervous. She sat down.

Scrunch!

Miss Cincinnati feared the worst, because a girl in a bathing costume stretched taut can't sit on a lipstick, shade known as Tigerwoman, without realizing it. Up she jumped. She looked in the mirror. E-e-e-eek!

There was hell to pay in a ladylike way backstage at the Atlantic

Graham Leaving N-J For W. Virginia Post

John W. Graham, general manager of The News-Journal for the past 13 years, is leaving his position here to become general manager of the newspaper interests of the West Virginia Publishing company at Morgantown, W. Va., effective Monday.

The West Virginia firm publishes the Dominion News, a morning paper, the Morgantown Post, an afternoon paper, and several weeklies. H. C. Greer is president.

Graham, who has been active in civic, business and veterans' affairs, came to Mansfield in 1925. He served through 1926 on the advertising staff of the old Mansfield News and returned here in 1933 as general manager of the combined News and Journal. The interim period he had spent in Lorain. In all, he has been with the Mansfield Journal company and Lorain Journal company,

MAY WILLING TO FACE QUESTIONS

Congressman Denies Getting Profits From Combine.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Andrew J. May offered today to submit to senate war investigating committee questioning—either immediately at his Prestonsburg, Ky., home or later in Washington.

A subcommittee of the group which spent weeks earlier this summer delving into the wartime operations of the Garsson Munitions combine could meet with him in Kentucky, May wrote Chairman Mead (D-NY), or a formal session could be arranged here at a date "as determined by my physician."

Simultaneously, the chairman of the house military committee made public a prepared statement which he said would have been read to the senate committee on July 26 if illness had not prevented his appearance in response to a subponea.

In the statement, the Kentucky Democrat reiterated previous assertions that he did not profit in any way from his association with the combine, and specifically that he received no compensation for aiding in the operations of the Cumberland Lumber company, one of the Garsson affiliates.

On the contrary, May declared, he still has coming at least $659.31 for out-of-pocket expense which he said he incurred in its behalf.

SCHMELING OUT

HAMBURG—(AP)—Max Schmeling, the former world heavyweight champion, is out of jail after serving three months on a charge he continued building a new home after an order halting all such construction. He also was fined 10,000 marks, and his partially built house was confiscated by British authorities.

SHIP WORKERS BEGIN WALKOUT

AFL Leaders Say Strike Will Idle 400,000 Workers.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Seamen, seeking reversal of a wage stabilization board decision through a nation wide strike, began walking off ships in New York harbor shortly after 9 a. m. (EDT) today, a union spokesman announced.

"Some boys have jumped the gun," said John Hawk, vice president of the Seafarers International union. Yesterday it was reported that the men probably would begin moving ashore at noon with picketing scheduled to commence tomorrow.

Hawk said he was unable to give definite figures on the number of seamen who had left their ships.

Strike plans "are rolling", asserted Hawk, adding: "we will stay rolling until the decision on the wage stabilization board is reversed."

The strike call by the SUP and the Seafarers International union came despite a last minute offer by the WSB to consider a rehearing of its disapproval of the pay boost.

Almost 3,000 seamen quit work yesterday on the Pacific coast while 300 more walked off ships docked in Baltimore harbor last night.

Union leaders claimed the strike would take 400,000 workers off their jobs and tie up every port in the United States.

The recently formed AFL Maritime Trades department, including representatives of longshoremen, masters, mates and pilots, commercial telegraphers and firemen and oilers, yesterday pledged their support to the seamen.

The dispute is not between the union and ship operators but instead finds both arrayed against the WSB which refused to approve a $27.50 monthly wage increase to which both parties had agreed. The board held that any raise over $17.50 would be inflationary.

British Forces To Quit Greece

LONDON — (INS) — Reuters in a dispatch from Athens today said British Ambassador Sir Clifford Norton has stated that British troops will be evacuated from the Greek capital and its environs by Sept. 15.

The ambassador to Greece, according to the report, said the evacuation will begin next week.

YOUTH HANGS SELF; GUARDS CUT HIM DOWN

Slayer Ties Bed Sheet Noose to Bar, Jumps From Cot in Effort to Cheat Justice.

CHICAGO — (INS) — William Heirens, 17-year-old college boy killer now awaiting sentence for three atrocious murders, today attempted to hang himself with a bed sheet in his jail cell.

Heirens was cut down by guards, and was reported not to have suffered any ill effects.

The announcement that Heirens had attempted to cheat justice by taking his own life, was made by Sheriff William Mulcahy.

During Guard Change.

The sheriff said that Heirens, who has confessed to a long series of murders and burglaries, made the attempt on his own life as guards were changed today.

Mulcahy said the youth took the bed sheet, tied it around his neck and to a high bar in his cell and then jumped off his cot.

He was uninjured although he was reported to be suffering from shock and nervous strain.

Heirens made the suicide attempt several hours before he was scheduled to be taken before Judge Harold G. Ward, chief justice of the Cook county criminal courts, for sentencing for the three murders to which he has confessed and entered pleas of guilty.

Heirens yesterday formally pleaded guilty to the three murder charges. He admitted the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan last Jan. 7, the "lipstick" murder of ex-WAVE Frances Brown Dec. 10, 1945, and the robbery-killing of Mrs. Josephine Ross, a widow, June 3, 1945.

The sullen and unpredictable Heirens has been under heavy guard in his jail cell ever since his arrest June 26.

Waits for Chance.

Cunningly, Heirens waited until his guards were changed outside his jail cell early today when he made his suicide try.

According to Sheriff Mulcahy, Heirens remained dangling from the bed sheet for about five minutes before the new shift of guards noticed what he had done.

Sheriff Mulcahy announced immediately that four prison guards had been suspended because of failure to keep a closer watch over Heirens, University of Chicago student by day and wanton prowler and killer by night.

8 NEW LEVIES GO ON BALLOT

Two Others Up For Renewal; Shelby Votes on Bonds.

At least eight special tax levies, two others that are due for renewal, and one bond issue probably will be presented to voters of various Richland county subdivisions in the general election Nov. 5.

Four of the tax levies outside the 10-mill limitation have been filed with the board of elections. Six others proposed by school districts and other governmental sub-divisions are expected to be filed before the Sept. 15 deadline.

All but one of the tax levies, rates of which range from two-tenths of a mill to five mills, are being proposed by school districts to provide operating funds and teacher salary increases.

The bond issue is for $600,000. If approved, it will finance two new Shelby school buildings, additions and improvements to the high school there and lighting of the school's athletic field.

Shiloh Asks Five Mills.

Shelby school district also is proposing an additional two-mill levy for current expenses, and salary increases and a 20-year levy at an estimated 3.4 mills to pay principal and interest on Shelby school bonds. Allowable interest on the bonds has been set at a maximum of 2.5 per cent.

Largest proposed tax levy is

SAFETY RULES ARE DISCUSSED

City Solons Take Measures to Aid Traffic Safety.

NEW LONDON — Traffic observance and safety rules formed the chief topic of discussion at Tuesday's council meeting here, receiving added impetus by a letter from former Mayor Clarence H. Burk, of Park avenue south. Burk is convalescing from a long illness and is afforded ample time to observe traffic violations on this street.

Particularly did Burk call council's attention to the flagrant traffic violations at the "Point," the intersection of South Main and Park avenues. Third and Grove streets join these intersections and create a hazardous condition, particularly so as the New London Recreation park is off Grove, and children cross from Third street and Park avenue, diagonally across South Main, to reach the Grove street entrance to the park.

Although Third street is properly marked with "stop" signs before converging with the main thoroughfare and both ends of the "Point" are marked with both "stop" signs or street paint, motorists still use these streets as racetracks to the danger of pedestrians, it was asserted.

Efforts have been made in the past to stop this practice, warnings have been issued, but to no apparent avail. Mayor White and council are now determined to take severe action against all offenders.

Sewer extension work received some attention after which council adjourned.

GIVEN RECOGNITION

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Lowell Ringer, Bucyrus, was given recognition at Columbus over the weekend when she was elected president of the auxiliary of the 309th Engineers association, an organization of veterans who saw service overseas in the first World war. # Galion Blue Ribbon Riders May Be In Tiro Horse Show

TIRO — Every horse will have his day in Tiro community Sunday, Sept. 15, when the big horse show sponsored jointly by the Tiro Business club and the Buckeye Rangers will take place at the Weldon Nye farm.

Three Galion riders, members of the Buckeye Rangers, who won awards at the big horse show held Labor Day at the state fair grounds in Columbus, are expected to participate in the show here.

They are Mrs. Lucille Strauch, who won first place in the pleasure horse class riding "My Silver Charm", and John Moore and Carl Dalton, of the children's home near Galion. John Moore won first place in the pony contest riding "Tex" and Carl Dalton took third astride "Buster".

Events for ponies will be added to the list of contests for full fledged horses. A total of 16 classes will be offered to contestants with $272 in prize money waiting the winners of first, second, and third places. In addition trophies and ribbons will also be awarded the first place winners and a ribbon will go to the fourth and fifth place winners.

Plans for the horse show are being completed by members of the sponsoring organizations. Members of the business club considered details of the show at a meeting Wednesday night at the C. I. Caris home. A concession stand will sell sandwiches, drinks, popcorn, etc. at the show. There will be a parking space easily accessible from state route 98.

A feature of the event will be a square dance on horseback with music being furnished by a popular dance orchestra.

Galion Enrolls 1,602 Pupils On First Day of School Year

GALION — The Galion public schools opened this year with 1,602 pupils enrolled in the five buildings, Supr. M. A. Povenmire announced. There were 1,562 enrolled on the first day last year.

In the teaching staff there are eleven new instructors, two of whom formerly taught in the Galion schools. They are: M. E. Shank, new principal of the Junior high school who replaces A. R. Liggett, who resigned to move to Florida because of the health of his son; Mrs. Dale Seif, E. B. Rannow, E. L. Bailey, Leo Brown, Mrs. Philip Neumann, all teaching in the Junior and Senior high school level; Miss Dorothy Cronenwett, Mrs. Mary Sue Bratcher, Mrs. William Bradfield, Mrs. H. E. Rose and Mrs. Mervin Christman, in the elementary schools.

The enrollment of the buildings for the first day follows: North, 122; East, 273; South, 117; West, 367; Junior high, 399; Senior high, 322; total, 1,602.

This number includes 18 elementary pupils who are enrolled from the Blooming Grove district, for the second year. They are assigned to the South building.

The work of the custodial staff in the redecoration of the Senior high school and in cleaning the other buildings was commended at the general teachers' meeting which was held in the high school library, Monday morning.

Emphasis was placed upon the passing of the one and a half mill levy for current operating expenses which will be presented to Galion voters in the November election. The importance of the work of the PTA in the Galion schools was also pointed out at the meeting.

Plans for safety practices in going to and from school and on the playground were discussed.

The elementary teacher committees of last year were commended for their work in the organization of courses of study. This year, emphasis is to be placed upon guidance work in the elementary schools, which will include the possibilities of better records and improved testing program and counseling practices.

Besides the two new courses of study in the Senior high school, the automobile driving course and elementary psychology, both elective for seniors, a third new course is offered to the high school boys. This is industrial arts. Boys of the sophomore, junior and senior classes who wish to take this course may go back to the Junior high for the study. Otherwise, boys taking a college preparatory course, would have no opportunity to take industrial arts.

Husband No. 9 Calls It Quits

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. —(U.P.)—A pretty brunet waitress, Alice Emert Wells Renfro, 29, who vowed after her 8th divorce that she was through with men, may soon be rid of number 9.

Her 9th husband, Andrew H. Renfro, 28, sued her for divorce yesterday. Mrs. Renfro has no children by any of her marriages.

Don't Force Youngsters to Study Music, States Iturbi

HOLLYWOOD — (NS) — Halt, Madam! Don't beat that youngster if he doesn't want to become a piano prodigy!

Jose Iturbi, who makes more money in an evening with 88 keys than a jewel thief in an apartment house, hands out that sage advice today after years of world-wide concert tours—during which his tortured eardrums have been subjected to the efforts of at least one "prodigy" per city.

With two grandchildren who hated their piano lessons just as much as any other youngsters in the block, Jose knows what he's talking about. Said Jose to your reporter:

"If the music isn't in here"—he rolls up his talented fingers and boffs himself on the chest—"you can't put it in."

"All kids should have some music in their schooling, but after that, it's up to them."

In the case of his own grandchildren, Jose admits he started off on the wrong foot. He hired a good instructor, and tried to keep them to regular hours at their practice. They didn't want any part of it.

"Finally, I said to the children: 'Okay.' I said to the instructor: 'Goodbye, instructor.' We all forgot about it. I didn't mention it."

Meanwhile, of course, Jose kept up his own nimble talent by regular, daily practice, even though he already was right on top of the heap when it comes to the grand concert pianists.

The youngsters may have been out in back splashing around in the blue-tiled swimming pool, squishing water out of their fists at floating eucalyptus leaves, but they couldn't help hearing the best of music tinkling away inside the house.

"Now," says Jose, winking, "they're after me all the time to teach them to play. And I will—but only after I keep them dangling awhile with "maybe tonight we'll start,' or 'tomorrow.'

"Nothing is worth while that comes too easily."

This chunky little fellow with the close-cropped, graying hair, who started bolstering the family budget by beating the ivories in a local silent movie house, back in Spain before he was out of knee pants, has a lot of sympathy for young piano rebels, too.

"Believe me,' he says, "there are times when I hate that piano; when I could tear it up. But, if you've got that something inside, you always come back."

LAST ESCAPER BACK IN PRISON

Stark County Man Seized By Railroad Detective.

Harold Romine, 23, of Stark county, was back in the Mansfield reformatory today after two days of freedom, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke reported.

Romine, last of four inmates who escaped from the institution Tuesday, was captured by a railroad detective in the Marion railroad yards yesterday. He was returned to the institution about 4 p. m. Glattke said.

Cases of the four escapers, Charles Pierson, 20, Summit county; Leonard Evans, 23, Cuyahoga county; Charles Leftwich, 20, Franklin county, and Romine will be reviewed in the institution court Friday and penalties assessed, Glattke said.

The inmates escaped with the aid of a rope used to haul up tools and materials for a roof repairing job, while the attention of a new guard had been distracted, Glattke said.

STOCKS SHOW TENDENCY TO HALT SLUMP

Dealings Fast From Opening, With Many Leaders Still Backing Water.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market developed individual rallying tendencies today but many leaders continued to back water as an aftermath to yesterday's sharpest market break in 16 years.

Dealings were fast from the opening on, with the ticker tape as much as three minutes lated uring the greater part of the forenoon. Volume was at the rate of more than 3,000,000 shares for the full preceedings.

While recoveries of $1 to $5 a share were well distributed around midday, losses at one time ran to $9 or more for some pivotals.

Steels, up at the start, eventually backed down from the best. Assorted Rails, Rubbers and Industrials improved.

The customer rooms of Wall Street brokerage houses were jammed during the morning, just as they were yesterday, but there was little evidence of anything approaching frenzied excitement.

One prominent broker who maintains direct wire connections with his firm's branch offices in major cities reported that customer rooms outside of New York seemed to be more crowded and carried an air of more excitement than those in Wall Street.

Trading during hte first hour totaled 820,000 shares compared with 170,000 yesterday, making this just about the most active opening period of the year.

There was one odd-lot sale of New York and Harlem, usually an inactive stock, at $290, off $10 a share from yesterday's close when this same issue was down by $22 a share for the day.

At noon, American Telephone was down $4 at just above $175, Bethlehem Steel was down a bit more than $2 at $98, Chrysler was off a lige amount at $95.50, and Union Pacific was down $8 at $123. Eastman Kodak was among those on the upside at $223, up $3.

Brokers gave a variety of possible reasons for the market's unusual actions, but many of them were nebulous. At one prominent house, however, there was a definite veering away from international troubles as an underlying reason for the break. It was pointed out that the London market had been holding fairly steady and that this indicated domestic reasons were behind the fall.

Fund Meeting Today—Members of the executive committee of the Mansfield Community Fund will meet at 4:30 p. m. today in the Fund office, Walpark building.

Grange Meeting — Columbian Grange will meet in the Grange hall at Lexington Saturday evening. It will be inspection night and A. C. Mellick, county deputy, will be present.

Parole Board Here — The Ohio Pardon and Parole commission convened today at the Mansfield reformatory to hear 125 institutional cases, Arthur L. Glattke, reformatory superintendent, said.

Theft Reported—Albert Pschirer, 354 Central avenue, told police yesterday that an air cleaner and gasoline tank cap were taken from his car sometime between Monday and yesterday while the auto was parked on Central avenue.

Meeting Postponed — The regular plumbing examiners' meeting, scheduled for Friday at 7 p. m., has been postponed until Sept. 13 at 7 p. m. at the city building, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today.

Meat Stolen—Burglars entered the North End Lunch, North Franklin avenue, last night or early today, and stole $18 worth of meat. Stolen were pork chops, hamburger, bacon and bologna, according to police. Thieves entered through an unlocked rear door, officers said.

Ordered to Court—A 14-year-old Van Buren avenue boy and a 16-year-old Third street boy were ordered to appear in juvenile court today for hearing in connection with the reported attempted theft of a car last night. Officers said they found the two attempting to start a Ford, Model T coach on Wayne street, about 6:15 p. m. yesterday. One had a key, police said. Both said they thought the car was for sale and wanted to hear how the motor sounded," officers said.

Cow Sets Record—Willeben Johanna Belle Ona, registered Holstein cow owned by W. B. Cockley of Lexington, has completed a 10-year milk production record of 147,980 pounds, the Holstein-Friesian Association of America reported today. The cow's highest single record was made at the age of seven years, when she produced 15,998 pounds of milk and 554 pounds of butterfat. Her 10-year milking period produced 5,152 pounds of butter-fat, the association reported.

Pretention Meeting — A meeting of executive committee for the city's Fire Prevention week will be held at 8 p. m. today in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

Braved Death to Save Fallen Allied Fliers

By NITA BRANSON

Five years of endless privations under German occupation is scarcely the kind of background to make America credible to a French countess, even one born in Massachusetts.

Amazed at all the things one can secure here that have been "verboten" for so long in France, the former Beatrice Bruce, a sister of Mrs. Irving Clark is still, after a month's sojourn in America, astounded at our way of living.

Although she says, "of course it is understandable," she can make an event of the buying of a pair of walking shoes and a whole pound of butter at one time.

The rationing of war days is still in effect in Paris and butter is doled out at one and two-third ounces per person each month. Bread, a black soggy mass of dough, comes in long loaves something like our Vienna bread. Each person is allowed one of these unappetizing loaves each month.

Glad War Behind Her.

But Madame Payen, as she is called in America, is glad the war is behind her; glad she was able to do her big part in helping win that war.

Thirty-four years ago, the American girl went to Paris to study history and archeology at the Sorbonne. Six years later she married the Count Payen Cordier de La Londe, scion of a wealthy, old French family. She

BULL MARKET'S UPSET BLOCKS NEW FINANCING

Break Nips Budding Issues in Spite of Halt in Wall Street's Decline.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A decline of more than $5,000,000,000 in all stocks traded in the N. Y. stock exchange in the past two days—underscored by earlier market drops—today appeared to have placed at least a temporary block in the path of billions of dollars of new corporate financing.

Composite Value Drops.

A survey of 60 representative stocks disclosed their composite value had gone up instead of down on only five days during the past month. Last Tuesday the market tobogganed into its sharpest break in 16 years and in furious trading yesterday another low for the year was established. A late rally served only to reduce many of the losses.

Analysts have thrown in a complexity of "reasons" for the downswing, but a clear consensus has been lacking.

An underwriting syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb and company served notice today they planned to go ahead with a public offering of $30,000,000 in new Westinghouse Electric debentures.

On the other hand, postponements of proposed sales of new securities have been announced by the handful.

The trend for the last three months has been definitely downward.

Vet Sees No End To 4-Year Wait For Own Home

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 400 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

Four years is a long time to wait for anything one wants very badly. Paul Livensparger, today's veteran, waited that long to return to his home in Mansfield while he was serving as a mechanic with the Army Air Force.

Now Livensparger is beginning to feel that it may be just as long a wait before he will find the home that he and his family desire so very much.

He has been conducting his constant, still fruitless, search since last November, during the time he has off from his job at Westinghouse. In the meantime the Livenspargers, with their 18-months-old child, live with his parents at 183 North Linden road.

"We would buy a place, if we could find one within reason," said Livensparger, "but the way conditions are today, the whole housing situation seems snafu."

23 LOSE LIVES IN AIR CRACKUP

Two-Year-Old Infant's Only Survivor of Plane Crash.

ELKO, Nev.—(AP)—A two-engine transport plane of the Trans-Luxury Airlines, on a trans-continental flight, crashed three miles west of here early today with a probable death toll of 23.

A two-year-old boy was the only survivor, airline officials in San Francisco reported. One woman passenger was brought to a hospital here and died several hours after the tragedy.

The DC-3 plane crashed at about 2 a. m. (PST) a short distance from the Elko airport. The country is flat, although the rugged Ruby mountains are nearby.

The San Francisco airline spokesman said the cause was not immediately determined.

He said the craft was en route from New York to San Francisco.

Lausche Signs Old Age Pension Bill

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Governor Lausche signed into law today the new old age assistance bill raising the ceilings of pensions from $40 to $50 a month.

Lausche charged there were some provisions in the bill, passed by the last special session of the general assembly, which were "ambiguous," but said these provisions could be clarified by the regular session of the legislature which meets in January.

WCTU SEEKS CHANGE

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Consideration of a resolution seeking a "system of liquor control other than by the state" was on today's agenda of the 73rd annual W. C. T. U. state convention in Columbus.

SCHOOL HEAD ATTENDS MASS MEET TONIGHT

Superintendent to Discuss Western Avenue Problem With Aroused Parents.

Transfer of some of the fifth and sixth grade pupils from the Western Avenue school to one or more other schools in the western half of the city is the only solution to the overcrowding problem at the Western building, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said today.

Protests from parents in the Western district against a temporary half-day class schedule for fifth and sixth graders brought the crowded conditions in the elementary school to light yesterday, as city schools started the new term.

Supt. Miller said he would discuss the problem with aroused parents at a mass meeting at 7:30 p. m. today in the school building. The meeting had previously been set for the North Lake park pavilion.

The superintendent pointed out that transfer of pupils from the Western building to other schools must be approved by the board of education. The Brinkerhoff school is nearest the Western building.

Brinkerhoff Crowded.

The Brinkerhoff school, however, already has an increase of 44 pupils over last year's enrollment.

C. C. Secrist, principal of Brinkerhoff, said today that he has 57 pupils in the fifth grade, of which 18 are in a split fourth-fifth grade class, and the 39 other pupils in a regular fifth grade class. The sixth grade at Brinkerhoff has registrations for 36 pupils.

Commenting on the suggestions of several parents that a temporary building be set up for the overflowing Western classes, Miller said that there "are too many regulations that govern temporary buildings for public school use."

Pupils 'Won't Study'.

Protests from parents of the children, who were told to "study at home" yesterday afternoon, flowed into the superintendent's office.

Mothers of the children protested against the action, saying that "children would not study at home in the afternoon."

"We're paying for all-day instruction of our children and we want them to get a sound background in the fifth and sixth grades before they begin junior high school," one mother said.

Enrollment in the two classes at Western is up six pupils over last year, figures showed today. A total of 105 pupils are registered in the two grades.

STILL NO RAIN

Weatherman Says Drought to Continue.

There was little prospect today of any rain to end the late summer drought which has hit pastures and crops in the Mansfield area.

The weatherman said skies would remain clear tonight with considerable cloudiness and higher temperatures due tomorrow. It's likely to be cooler again by Saturday or Sunday, he added.

A high of 72 degrees was recorded yesterday while the mercury climbed to 74 at noon today. Last night's low was 48.

Predicts Linking Of Royal Families

LONDON —(INS)— The Communist "Daily Worker" revived reports today of an imminent marriage linking the British and Greek royal families.

The publication said: "There is talk of a possible marriage which is being planned between Elizabeth (heiress presumptive to the British throne) and one of the Glucksburg family by the name of King George II of Greece. Apart from George himself, other eligible males in the Glucksburg family are Princes Paul and Philip."

News-Journal Staff Photo by George Petrovich.

TOUGH DECISION: It's a tough decision for a fella to make when there are lessons to learn and no teacher about. Nine-year-old Rex Brock "models" the study-at-home system envisioned for fifth and sixth grade pupils of Western Avenue school because of overcrowded conditions. His playmates, Freddy Bair (left background) and Charles Gilbert, demonstrate the temptation to which Western avenue parents say their youngsters are likely to succumb if the order for half-day classes and study-at-home is carried out. The picture was taken at the W. S. Brock residence, 70 North Linden road.

SLAYBAUGH TO HEAD DRIVE

Committee Picked to Handle Community Fund Campaign.

The opening gun of the fall campaign of the Mansfield Community Fund was fired last night when the executive committee announced the appointment of W. E. Slabaugh, jr., Westinghouse departmental executive, as general chairman and manager of the drive.

Dates for the campaign have been set for Oct. 14 to 23 inclusive. The goal sought will not be decided until next week after the budget committee of 12 Mansfield citizens has considered the individual agency budgets, Mrs. Jane Williams, executive secretary of the fund, said today.

The campaign will be Slabaugh's first work with the Community Fund. He said today that he has already picked his campaign committee which will be made up of the heads of various divisions of the drive.

Committee Named.

Chairmen who will serve with Slabaugh are: Don G. Ogden and Howard Richards, as co-chairmen of the industrial division; C. J. Solomon, automobile division; Charles G. Tanzel, construction division; W. L. Miller and Msgr. R. C. Goebel, co-chairmen of the education division; Dwight P. Smith, financial division; Charles J. Stecker, food division; Howard M. Doner, professional division; Norman L. Wolfe, public employes division; Myron D. Miller.

Her Suit Was White -- She Sat on Lipstick

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(UP)—I can't call this dispatch "Murder at the Beauty Pageant," because Miss Cincinnati has not learned yet who caused her to sit down on a lipstick.

If she had been wearing a red bathing suit it wouldn't have been so bad. But there was Miss Cincinnati, known to the homefolks as Miss Lavonne Bond, waiting in the dressing room for her turn to walk briskly down the runways before the judges and seven thousand other goggle-eyed beauty lovers at the 25th annual Miss America contest.

Her suit was white. It was tight. It was designed, according to its manufacturer, to attract attention.

Miss Cincinnati was nervous. She sat down.

Scrunch!

Miss Cincinnati feared the worst, because a girl in a barking costume stretched taut can't sit on a lipstick, shade known as Tigerwoman, without realizing it. Up she jumped. She looked in the mirror. E-e-e-eek!

Graham Leaving N-J For W. Virginia Post

JOHN W. GRAHAM

John W. Graham, general manager of The News-Journal for the past 13 years, is leaving his position here to become general manager of the newspaper interests of the West Virginia Publishing company at Morgantown, W. Va., effective Monday.

The West Virginia firm publishes the Dominion News, a morning paper, the Morgantown Post, an afternoon paper, and several weeklies. H. C. Greer is president.

Graham, who has been active in civic, business and veterans' affairs, came to Mansfield in 1925. He served through 1926 on the advertising staff of the old Mansfield News and returned here in 1933 as general manager of the combined News and Journal. The interim period he had spent in Lorain. In all, he has been with the Mansfield Journal company and Lorain Journal company,

MAY WILLING TO FACE QUESTIONS

Congressman Denies Getting Profits From Combine.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Andrew J. May offered today to submit to senate war investigating committee questioning—either immediately at his Prestonsburg, Ky., home or later in Washington.

A subcommittee of the group which spent weeks earlier this summer delving into the wartime operations of the Garsson Munitions combine could meet with him in Kentucky, May wrote Chairman Mead (D-NY), or a formal session could be arranged here at a date "as determined by my physician."

Simultaneously, the chairman of the house military committee made public a prepared statement which he said would have been read to the senate committee on July 26 if illness had not prevented his appearance in response to a subpoena.

In the statement, the Kentucky Democrat reiterated previous assertions that he did not profit in any way from his association with the combine, and specifically that he received no compensation for aiding in the operations of the Cumberland Lumber company, one of the Garsson affiliates.

On the contrary, May declared, he still has coming at least $659.31 for out-of-pocket expense which he said he incurred in its behalf.

SCHMELING OUT

HAMBURG—(AP)—Max Schmeling, the former world heavyweight champion, is out of jail after serving three months on a charge he continued building a new home after an order halting all such construction. He also was fined 10,000 marks, and his partially built house was confiscated by British authorities.

SHIP WORKERS BEGIN WALKOUT

AFL Leaders Say Strike Will Idle 400,000 Workers.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Seamen, seeking reversal of a wage stabilization board decision through a nation wide strike, began walking off ships in New York harbor shortly after 9 a. m. (EDT) today, a union spokesman announced.

"Some boys have jumped the gun," said John Hawk, vice president of the Seafarers International union. Yesterday it was reported that the men probably would begin moving ashore at noon with picketing scheduled to commence tomorrow.

Hawk said he was unable to give definite figures on the number of seamen who had left their ships.

Strike plans "are rolling", asserted Hawk, adding: "we will stay rolling until the decision on the wage stabilization board is reversed."

The strike call by the SUP and the Seafarers International union came despite a last minute offer by the WSB to consider a rehearing of its disapproval of the pay boost.

Almost 3,000 seamen quit work yesterday on the Pacific coast while 300 more walked off ships docked in Baltimore harbor last night.

Union leaders claimed the strike would take 400,000 workers off their jobs and tie up every port in the United States.

The recently formed AFL Maritime Trades department, including representatives of longshoremen, masters, mates and pilots, commercial telegraphers and firemen and oilers, yesterday pledged their support to the seamen.

The dispute is not between the union and ship operators but instead finds both arrayed against the WSB which refused to approve a $27.50 monthly wage increase to which both parties had agreed. The board held that any raise over $17.50 would be inflationary.

British Forces To Quit Greece

LONDON —(INS)— Reuters in a dispatch from Athens today said British Ambassador Sir Clifford Norton has stated that British troops will be evacuated from the Greek capital and its environs by Sept. 15.

The ambassador to Greece, according to the report, said the evacuation will begin next week.

TAFT'S KEYNOTER

COLUMBUS—(INS)—U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft will deliver the keynote address at the Republican state convention in Columbus on September 11.

YOUTH HANGS SELF; GUARDS CUT HIM DOWN

Slayer Ties Bed Sheet Noose to Bar, Jumps From Cot in Effort to Cheat Justice.

CHICAGO — (INS) — William Heirens, 17-year-old college boy killer now awaiting sentence for three atrocious murders, today attempted to hang himself with a bed sheet in his jail cell.

Heirens was cut down by guards, and was reported not to have suffered any ill effects.

The announcement that Heirens had attempted to cheat justice by taking his own life, was made by Sheriff William Mulcahy.

During Guard Change.

The sheriff said that Heirens, who has confessed to a long series of murders and burglaries, made the attempt on his own life as guards were changed today..

Mulcahy said the youth took the bed sheet, tied it around his neck and to a high bar in his cell and then jumped off his cot.

He was uninjured although he was reported to be suffering from shock and nervous strain.

Heirens made the suicide attempt several hours before he was scheduled to be taken before Judge Harold G. Ward, chief justice of the Cook county criminal courts, for sentencing for the three murders to which he has confessed and entered pleas of guilty.

Heirens yesterday formally pleaded guilty to the three murder charges. He admitted the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan last Jan. 7, the "lipstick" murder of ex-WAVE Frances Brown Dec. 10, 1945, and the robbery-killing of Mrs. Josephine Ross, a widow, June 3, 1945.

The sullen and unpredictable Heirens has been under heavy guard in his jail cell ever since his arrest June 26.

Waits for Chance.

Cunningly, Heirens waited until his guards were changed outside his jail cell early today when he made his suicide try.

According to Sheriff Mulcahy, Heirens remained dangling from the bed sheet for about five minutes before the new shift of guards noticed what he had done.

Sheriff Mulcahy announced immediately that four prison guards had been suspended because of failure to keep a closer watch over Heirens, University of Chicago student by day and wanton prowler and killer by night.

8 NEW LEVIES GO ON BALLOT

Two Others Up For Renewal; Shelby Votes on Bonds.

At least eight special tax levies, two others that are due for renewal, and one bond issue probably will be presented to voters of various Richland county subdivisions in the general election Nov. 5.

Four of the tax levies outside the 10-mill limitation have been filed with the board of elections. Six others proposed by school districts and other governmental sub-divisions are expected to be filed before the Sept. 15 deadline.

All but one of the tax levies, rates of which range from two-tenths of a mill to five mills, are being proposed by school districts to provide operating funds and teacher salary increases.

The bond issue is for $600,000. If approved, it will finance two new Shelby school buildings, additions and improvements to the high school there and lighting of the school's athletic field.

Shiloh Asks Five Mills.

Shelby school district also is proposing an additional two-mill levy for current expenses, and salary increases and a 20-year levy at an estimated 3.4 mills to pay principal and interest on Shelby school bonds. Allowable interest on the bonds has been set at a maximum of 2.5 per cent.

Largest proposed tax levy is

'OLD COUNTRY' APPEALS TO ALL NATIONALITIES

Collection of Tales to Go Into Circulation Monday at City Library.

Heading the list of new books available Monday at the Mansfield public library is one by an author well-known abroad but almost unknown here. It is a collection of best stories by Sholom Aleichem, entitled THE OLD COUNTRY, and translated into English. Gay and funny, yet also touching, these tales make very real the varied people of "the old country."

JANEY JEEMS, by Bernice Kelly Harris, tells a heartening story of life in one of the regions where living it not easy. When Janes, at 15, married Jeems West, she knew that she wanted from life a happy home and children.

As the years passed, she got her wish, in spite of the hardships of scratching a living from the Carolina hills, the threat to her marriage of the memory of Jeems' unhappy first marriage, and the nearness of Valentine, who deals in charms and witchery. These only made Janey work harder to help Jeems and rear the children well.

SHE SHALL HAVE MUSIC, by Raya Keen, is a behind-the-scenes story of American ballet written from first hand experience. The reader who follows Zina Reed, Russian-American girl as she strives to become a ballerina in the great tradition comes to know the people of that strange world of the ballet and shares Zina's triumphs and heartaches.

Other fiction:

OUTLAW ON HORSEBACK, Ermine; O. HENRY AWARD PRIZE STORIES OF 1946; DANCING DETECTIVE, Woolrich; MAN WHO WATCHED THE TRAINS GO BY, Simeon; INNOCENTS OF PARIS, Cesbron.

LILLY DACHE: TALKING THROUGH MY HATS, by Lilly Dache, tells the adventures of the young French girl who made her dream come true in America, where she became an internationally famous milliner. The story of her swift rise to success is encouraging to others who are ambitious for careers in glamor.

THE HOUSATONIC: PURITAN RIVER, by Chard Powers Smith, is a new volume in the RIVERS OF AMERICA series. The Housatonic, rising in the Berkshires near Pittsfield and flowing into Long Island Sound, is rich in water power and natural resources. Yet, except for industrial cities at either end, it is almost as "unimproved" industrially as it was 200 years ago. This is because, in most cases, the people have chosen to keep it beautiful. The book is not only the story of the river, but of the people, many of them famous, who live and have lived in its valley.

OLD ROUGH AND READY: ZACHARY TAYLOR, by Silas McKinley and Silas Bent, presents a full-length portrait of one of America's neglected heroes. Few biographers have been interested in Taylor, the general who won the victory in the Mexican war, and who, in the short time he was president, proved himself a more able administrator than most people realize.

Other non fiction: GENETICS, Altenburg; CAREERS IN SOCIAL SERVICE, Steele & Blatt; THE EVERGREEN CITIZEN, Heffelfinger; CONTEMPORARY AMERICA, Wish; AMERICA'S GERMANY, Bach; I'VE HAD IT, Lay; HO, FOR HEAVEN, Moore; TREASURY OF NAMES, Wells; PARTY TABLE, Powers.

Parking Meter Receipts Drop During August.

Mansfield's 417 parking meters netted the city $3,754 in August to boost total collections so far this year over the $30,600 mark.

August collections, however, were about $700 under July's $4,447. May's $4,645 still holds the monthly total lead for 1946.

Since the meters were installed in November, 1940, $239,599 has been received through them, Robert Sneeringer, meter inspector, reports.

POST OFFICE NEEDS CITED

Ford Says Volume Increased Five-Fold Since 1914.

A new post office plant with equipment and additional personnel to handle "an ever increasing volume" are "major requirements of the Mansfield postal service," Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford told members of the Optimists club yesterday.

In contrast to receipts of $84,000 in 1914 when the post office was built, he said, the Mansfield office now handles five times that volume. The city's population, 21,000 in 1914, has more than doubled.

Asked what the prospects were for a new post office building, Ford said he did not know, explaining that any decision must come from Washington.

Speaking at the club's luncheon meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Ford praised the consideration given the postal service by the public during the war. "The biggest problem faced by the service," he said, "was the bad addressing of mail."

Howard Downard presided. D W. Kaylor was announced as new board governor, succeeding Gene Oliver.

George C. Kyle, program chairman, introduced Postmaster Ford.

Dismisses Suit Against Merchant

An injunction suit filed against J. W McIntyre, as operator of the Plymouth Dry Goods company, Plymouth, was dismissed yesterday in the United States District court at Toledo at the request of the Office of Price administration.

According to the OPA, McIntyre, who had failed to maintain proper pricing charts and to file base period prices in the operation of his business, now has complied with all pricing regulations.

Flax Crop's Short, So Paint Shelves Are Empty

Harry Oliver of the Sherwin-Williams store surveys empty paint shelves.

Linseed Oil Drought Hits Builders of New Homes and Owners Who Want to Spruce Up Old Ones.

By NITA BRANSON

It's a long way from a flax field in the Argentines to the walls of that little white cottage you built with such painstaking care, only to find that you couldn't get paint for it.

Because the fields in Argentina and Texas failed to produce a record yield of flax last year, your chance of getting the "beauty aid" for your new home or the preservative for your old house, has grown slimmer by the month.

What has flax to do with paint? Well, for one thing from flax comes linseed oil. Linseed oil is one of the basic ingredients of paint. When oil is scarce, so is paint.

Of course other things enter into the picture, too.

Such things as markets and a shortage of lead and other raw materials. Recent labor shortages and strikes are just now beginning to have a serious effect.

Than there is a seasonal shortage of cans, many of which are being used for canned foods and canning processes. All this leads to a shortage of house paints.

So now new homes, being erected at such a rapid rate for veterans and homemakers, and old houses which weathered the war as bare of protective covering as a new born baby, are showing the effect of the shortage.

Today, Mansfield stores are practically depleted of house paint supplies. Several stores interviewed had no house paint at all and were waiting the next shipment, uncertain as to its quantity

Contractors 'In Middle.'

Mansfield paint contractors are in the middle of the situation. Contractor Harry Hursh laid off seven men Tuesday until a new supply of house paint comes through.

On the other hand, there is John Selby, who obtained a big supply when it was available and has enough on hand to take care of this year's work. After that, Selby says, he'll have to take his chances with the rest.

Only one paint contractor in Mansfield is getting all the paint he needs. Wilbur Feigenbaum says he has no difficulty getting paints for his industrial jobs.

"We have long-standing orders," Feigenbaum says. "When it's time for another shipment of paint, it just comes through."

However, there's one consolation! Paints for inside decorating, such as enamels and the flat paints used for interiors, are still available. The quantity is limited, however.

Much of the pigment used in these paints is synthetic and depends upon no market or production shortages as those which affect the house product.

Hearing Continued For Truck Driver

ASHLAND — Eliae C. Cline, Ashland, driver of the truck which fatally injured Mrs. Cora Beach, 81, Friday on Claremont avenue, will have a hearing in police court Sept. 24, the hearing having been continued from Tuesday at the request of the city law director, C. S. Huffman.

Cline entered pleas of not guilty Tuesday to charges of leaving the scene of an accident and operating a motor vehicle without sufficient brakes. He was released on his own recognizance. Felix Sandusky, Columbus motorist who followed Cline and stopped him three blocks from the accident, has agreed to return to Ashland for the Sept. 24 hearing.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1946

Now it's a platinum shortage that's disturbing people who just can't live happily without platinum.

Most recent report from the bedside of ailing Congressman May is that he is putting up a good fight for re-election.

No better formula for reduction of so-called juvenile delinquency has been found than in the sixth verse of the 22d chapter of Proverbs: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Drop In Stocks Signals Danger

WHILE it cannot be immediately judged whether Tuesday's stock market drop of 1 to 10 points means an early end to the present unnatural price structure in the nation, the violent slump still is an occurrence that cannot be ignored.

Paper profits, estimated at four and a half billion dollars, were wiped out by the crash. Of course, there may be some government economists who will rise to say that means nothing. It's only paper, they'll say. The business men or stock traders owed it to themselves. It's "merely taking money out of one cash drawer and putting it in another."

But it just doesn't work that way! Those four billions of dollars—even though only on paper—were creating a luxury market and forcing luxury prices higher by stimulating demand. The profits also encouraged further speculation and probably some actual business expansion as well.

Wiping out those profits is bound to hit the luxury market and to make a dent in general business confidence.

Wall Street is only a barometer. It does not increase or decrease the nation's actual wealth by one cent; only agricultural and industrial production can do that. Wall Street was a handy thing to blame our troubles on. But one might as well blame a barometer for a hurricane. Real prosperity lies in producing more and better goods and foodstuffs at less cost, maintaining fair earnings for the worker and a reasonable margin of profit for the producer.

A war and long-term federal tampering with the natural law of supply and demand has headed the country inevitably for a period of readjustment economically. The stock market crash may signal that such a readjustment has begun. But the main point is that false standards eventually collapse of their own weight—always. And the basis of national prosperity is still with us. Demand is still greater than supply and we have the tools and the men and the brains to produce the materials we need.

Even a new depression would be likely to be brief unless, again, persons in power insist on prolonging an emergency for political ends.

Mansfield Firm's Ads Commended

MANSFIELD attracts national attention in so many ways that many home-town folks are inclined to take for granted some of the things that people in other parts of the country consider sufficiently out of the ordinary to deserve mention and commendation.

As, for instance, the quite extended article in the current issue of Editor & Publisher, which is devoted to the interest-arousing qualities of one News-Journal advertiser—the Matthes Clothes Shop.

Theme of the article is the human interest element introduced into this firm's effective newspaper advertising.

One comment is particularly illuminating: "The ads sell the store by featuring the personnel. Matthes copy is as readable as local news and gossip. . . . The point is that shoppers learn to know and like the personnel before they come to the store. . . . They ask for 'Doc,' 'Mike,' 'Dickie,' or any other person who talks in the ads."

There is more about "the delightful personality of the store itself" and of the preference of patrons to buy from friendly clerks who show more than ordinary interest in them.

Given national distribution, it may be that merchandising methods so consistently and successfully followed by this Mansfield store will be studied and adopted by some thoughtful merchants in other cities, who may wonder why a customer comes once—but not again—to their store.

Attention, 'A Mansfield Housewife'

A COMMUNICATION signed only, "A Mansfield Housewife," tells of difficulties encountered in trying to have gas-burning equipment connected when the family moved to Mansfield recently.

It is regretted that the communication cannot be used because of not meeting the requirement that name and address be included.

Reference was made to the Saturday night gas explosion which caused injuries to five persons and badly damaged a home on Shelby avenue, also to the warning that none but experienced persons should attempt to make gas connections.

Communications on subjects of community or general interest are invited by the News-Journal (limited to about 250 words in length) but it is repeated that name and address of the writer must be included.

Dogdom Also Has 'Elite Circles'

FROM New York, Chicago, California, many parts of Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania, the Far South and Canada, they came and brought their dogs. They assembled, these blue-ribboned animals and their proud owners, on a recent sunny summer day under tents in the famous polo field at Gates Mills, Ohio. It was the first big dog show since the war.

What varieties of dogs there were, all shapes and sizes from miniature pinschers no bigger than rats to lumbering St. Bernards as broad-backed as ponies. Rare varieties included Afghan hounds, taupe-colored weimaraners, Salukis from Africa, Norwegian elk hounds, Siberian huskies, barkless basenjis from the Congo, Bedlington terriers looked like Walt Disney toys, Woebegone blood hounds bayed for Hawkshaw the detective. Saucy pugs, so popular with Victorian ladies, paraded beside the more familiar collies, cockers, Boston bulls and setters. Obedience tests and grooming demonstrated dogdom's brains and beauty.

Some exhibitors as well as visitors raised their dogs for fun, others for profit. But they have one common trait—all of them like dogs.

A theatrical magazine reports that many contortionists are unemployed and destitute—but since when can't a contortionist make ends meet?

A 15 year-old New Jersey bride [illegible] annulment [illegible] 'I guess I was too young to know my own mind' which sounds quite plausible.

Honest War-Profits Probe Urged, Monopolistic Practices Deplored

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists—today's by senator Glen T. Taylor, Democrat of Idaho.)

By GLEN H. TAYLOR

WASHINGTON—As the weeks roll by, it is becoming increasingly apparent that there is a real need for a thorough investigation of war profits. Not a small-fish fry or a field day for capital photographers, but a solid, studious, and exhaustive study of who made how much, who sabotaged Franklin D. Roosevelt's policy of equality of sacrifice, and how all this is going to affect you and me in the future.

It is political dynamite, equally dangerous to respected figures in both parties, but it is too important for squeamishness.

I am not particularly interested in unearthing evidence of champagne parties or of the more dramatic examples of disloyalty. I am much more anxious to learn the nature of the loyalties of the military and industrial figures who negotiated our war contracts and who determined procurement policy.

It became clear, very early in the war, that the large corporate giants were in the saddle. Their officials donned uniforms and sat down with their erstwhile colleagues to negotiate contracts. It was all very clubby. Smaller firms, which had no such connections with the chairborne infantry, were at a decided disadvantage.

Recently, I accused the railroads of overcharging the government on military freight during the war, and named the men who were supposed to serve as the army's watchdogs in making railroad freight rates. Four of the five were railroad officials before the war.

They have since returned to their roads at substantial promotions. No war department employe could request a rate reduction for the government without clearing the proposal with these railroad men.

Other industries, too, sent brave sons to the Pentagon and the WPB, where they ran the procurement and production programs. Never were buyer and seller so completely agreeable. The procession to excessive war profits skipped in blissful harmony under an archway of gleaming sabers.

New TNEC Needed.

Before the war, the investigation by the Temporary National Economic Commission did a great deal to reveal tendencies toward monopoly control. It told us which way we were headed, and what made our economy tick. It was called off as we entered upon war preparations. For, as Roosevelt organized the defenses of the United States to meet the Nazi-Fascist aggression, he learned that a high price would be exacted by the big-business boys for cooperation in the defense of the nation: enormous war profits, plus a still greater control of the nation's economy. The TNEC was one of the first to be taken hostage.

It was apparent that President Roosevelt could not fight a two-front war against the Axis and the big-business lobby at home.

The monopolies refused to accept war-production orders until accelerated tax amortization laws were enacted. In several instances they refused contracts until they were paid their own prices; their patriotism was cost-plus. Soon the familiar NAM faces were seen at the helm of America's war production effort.

By the end of 1945, the 63 largest manufacturing corporations, as listed by the Securities and Exchange Commission, had increased their net working capital by $10,000,000,000 of highly liquid assets above the net working capital of all manufacturing corporations in 1939. Mergers increased, government facilities were taken over, and the concentration of economic power reached new heights.

Small Business Suffered.

During the war there was much criticism in the newspapers about what was being done for small business. The Small Business Act and the Smaller War Plants corporation received much publicity, and President Roosevelt made a genuine attempt to prevent the accumulation of war profits. But the Small Business Act was used chiefly to exempt the railroads from anti-trust laws.

President Roosevelt's proposal for a $25,000 salary limitation was immediately junked by congress. The Smaller War Plants corporation finally shut down, admitting that its effort was only a drop in the bucket.

"During both world wars," the report states, "the importance of big business rose sharply. War contracts were issued predominantly to the large concerns. They accumulated huge profits and controlled the destinies of great numbers of workers." . . . When the second World war came along, "firms with 1,000 or more employes had 30 per cent of the total employment in all trades and industry and 36 per cent of the total payroll. By 1943, these figures had risen to 44 and 53 per cent." No less than two-thirds of the total prime contracts, the report shows, went to the top 100 corporations.

Investigation Needed.

We need a thorough investigation that will show us how we can restore a real competitive economy which will make it possible for small business to survive, and which will avoid another depression.

That can be accomplished only by uncovering the whole story of war profits and of wartime trends toward concentration of wealth and elimination of competition.

In short, I want the TNEC to take up where it left off. It doesn't have to make racy and lurid reading, but it must be scholarly and thorough. I don't just want to whip the pig for breaking into the corn shed. I want to bring him out to see how fat he's grown, and to find out whether he's getting too big for the rest of the animals in the barnyard.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Sept. 5, 1926.

Three hundred survivors of the Ohio Eighth regiment, Spanish-American war, held reunion in Mansfield, with memorial address by Gen. Edward Vollrath, of Bucyrus.

Mrs. George Kippel, 77, died at her home 184 East First street.

Seventy-five Mansfielders went to Sandusky on B. & O. railroad's final summer excursion.

Hoover Milling company office at 248 East Third street, was burglarized.

Mrs. Malissa A. Chenault, 78, died at her home on the Ashburg road.

Eighteen-months-old Dale Schiller, 77 Packard avenue, underwent appendix operation at General hospital. Youngest patient ever to have undergone that operation at the hospital.

Miss Katherine Kinder went to Tiffin to teach in high school.

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Unwritten Stories Sound Intriguing.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — First week of the fall months has little meaning in many parts of the country where the only way you note the passing of the seasons is by watching the calendar—but in the upper middlewest, it's different.

Here, already early autumn's cool, sharp air knifes at your nostrils, conjures up visions of fleet-footed halfbacks and forward passes, and brings nostalgia for another spring and summer which will never pass your way again.

And, accompanying that nostalgia is the nagging reminder that somehow you never accomplished all you set out to do in any given season.

If you're a roving reporter, riding through the clear brightness of Michigan's embryo autumn, the smell of the turning season brings the memory of all those stories you aimed to write—and didn't.

There was that column you were going to devote to Susan Myrick, way back in Macon, Ga., last spring. Pert and legendary, Sue is perhaps the best-known newspaperwoman in all the Dixie press gang. You could write fifty yarns about her.

Like, for instance, the time they shipped her out to Hollywood as a technical assistant for the movie "Gone With the Wind." Among other things, Sue was supposed to spend considerable time training English-Actor Leslie Howard to speak with a southern accent—than which there is none richer than Sue's.

After being introduced to he with the British brogue, she spent the first afternoon at the Howard manse, carefully exposing Leslie to the intricacies of "you-all" and such-like expression. That night, the director called on her to discover how long it would take to delete the British accent from the Howard diction and replace it with one from Dixie.

"How did it go, Miss Myrick?" he asked.

"Oh, topping — topping, old boy!" replied Sue. "He's really a frightfully decent sort of chap, y'know. Remarkably intelligent, too—what?"

Then there was that story you were going to write about the rotten revival of the Ku Klux Klan throughout the South—but the trouble was that, almost everywhere you went, it was the same story. Southwest . . . west coast . . . middlewest. Everywhere, the Klan was coming back. Finally, you gave that one up in disgust.

And the story you had all written about the war veteran who was a four-way amputee but was all set to start running his own chicken farm. But you passed that one because he asked you to. Said he'd start getting lots of letters from folks, and he wouldn't have time to answer them, and besides he'd sure appreciate being left alone to work this thing out for himself.

Oh, yes. You were going to do a story on highway courtesy, too. About how it was different in various parts of the country—and how the people along the east and west coasts seemed to be less courteous on the open road than the people from the middle of the country.

But you decided not to write that one until you'd seen more of the states, and pretty soon you forgot it.

And there was that roundup story you were planning to write about how the cities of America have character the same as people . . . New Orleans . . . Denver . . . San Francisco . . . how Chicago is the shirt-sleeves city where everybody rushes madly around trying to make a million dollars . . . and how New York is the white tie and tails (even rented) town where everybody walks as though he'd already made his million.

Nope, you didn't get any of them written. But then, there's something invigorating as well as nostalgic about the early fall in Great-Lakes-Land. Maybe you'll get them written yet!

Drivers Who Offend.

The most dangerous drivers are the very young-teen-age kids who seem to think it smart to exceed speed limits, turn corners on two wheels and beat traffic lights. They are mostly male.

The most exasperating drivers are the very old—doddering codgers who poke along in the middle of the street, react with maddening slowness when the light changes, and generally foul up the traffic flow. They also are mostly male.

Next to the senile, the most irritating motorists are the congenitally rude who regard the amber light as their private "go" signal and who make right turns into streams of pedestrians as if they were strikebreakers busting a picket line. As to sex, these boors are equally divided. — Akron Beacon-Journal.

Russia Seeks Greater Authority In Orient.

MOSCOW'S pointed celebration of its own V-J day and the insistence in both Generalissimo Stalin's order of the day and the Russian press on the thesis that it was primarily Russian might that smashed Japan may mark the opening of a new phase of the Russian attack on the American position in the Orient.

Neither Stalin nor his controlled press gave much credit to Russia's allies, and the fact that American arms had readied Japan for the knockout before the Red army poured over the Manchurian border either was ignored or disputed.

Russia declared war on Japan August 8, 1945, effective the following day.

Already Japanese leaders had been trying for months to find out what terms they might receive if they yielded, some of these overtures having been made through Moscow itself.

The first atomic bomb fell two days before the Russian declaration. Japan was already beaten. Part of the proof of this is the way the Russian columns drove almost at will through the crumbling ranks of Japan's famed Kwantung army in the final week of Japanese resistance. Japan surrendered unconditionally on August 14.

Russian propaganda usually has an objective, and it is reasonable to deduce that the V-J blasts, minimizing the roles of the United States and other Allies in the defeat of Japan, are preparing the background for fresh claims that Russia is not receiving her share in the control of Japan and the shaping of the beaten empire's future.

Military men of several Allied nations are known to believe that Nippon could be a tremendous asset in any future conflict to the power which controlled her strategic islands and her reservoir of manpower.

The Russians have made it clear almost from V-J day that they resented the dominant American role in the occupation, and American military officers have made no secret of their opposition to any extension of Russian influence there.

Sessions of the four-power Allied Control Council for Japan, which is supposed to assist General MacArthur in directing the occupation, frequently have developed acrimonious verbal battles between the American chairman, George Atcheson, jr., and the Russian member, Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, and the breach between them has shown no signs of healing.

One of the bitterest contentions has been over the repatriation of the Japanese soldiers—some authorities estimate them at 750,000—captured by the Red army in Manchuria and Korea and reported taken into Siberia and put to work.

The Russians simply have declined any information on this point, although the Potsdam agreement specified that "Japanese military forces . . . shall be permitted to return to their homes."

General MacArthur is known to have stood against various forms of Russian pressure to extend the Soviet foothold in Japan. One form of such pressure is reported authoritatively to have been a proposal that Japan be divided among the occupying powers, which probably would have placed Russia in the Hokkaido, the second largest and potentially the second richest of the Japanese home islands.

Such a division, of course, would have brought on Japan and the occupying Allies all the ills that have sprung from the partitioning of Germany and Austria.

The chief hope for Japan's restoration and development as a democratic, peaceful state that one day can claim a place in the family of nations lies in the fact that her occupation has been under a single command and choice and execution of occupation policy has been largely in the hands of a single power, the United States.

Get Out of Your Own Way!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE you ever tried to walk with a frantic youngster clinging to your knees? Didn't get ahead very fast, did you? You'd certainly hate to do all your walking with such a handicap.

And yet that's exactly the way most of us stumble through life!

Here we are, all set to go! So much to do . . . so many schemes to get under way . . . and we'll have to hurry, for others are getting ahead of us.

BUT we can't move! For every time we start, that pesty youngster grabs us . . . squalling with fright, shrieking with rage, gripping us with desperate, stupid stubbornness! An outrageous nuisance . . . why doesn't someone call it off? Because there's no one to call it off.

That pest belongs to us, and to us alone! It is our own childishness which hangs to our knees and keeps us from going ahead . . . our own childishness which we should have completed years ago, but which we will carry with us into our maturity.

Why don't we get ahead? We like to blame God . . . or Society . . . or our Families. But we ourselves are to blame. It is the Spoiled Brat in each of us that breaks our stride.

You know how it is with yourself. Those sudden spasms of anger . . . that panic that besets you in a crisis . . . your dread of making changes . . . your resentment of critisism . . . the difficulty of making decisions. You know how these traits bother you. You resent them and think, wistfully, how wonderful life would be if you were free of them. . . .

"But there's nothing I can do about it!" you say, with a resigned shrug. "I'm just made that way."

Snap out of it! Be your age! You're not made that way. These tiresome traits are not crosses which God has given you to bear. They're hang-overs from your childhood . . . infantile habits which you should have outgrown as you've outgrown snuffing and giggling and biting your nails.

REALLY mature people do outgrow such traits. Those quiet, strong, efficient people whom you so often envy, those people who seem never fussed, who do so much work with so little friction. . . . They didn't just happen to get that way. They worked to get that way. They deliberately "put aside childish things" and learned to think and act like men. And now they have full control of themselves. No fractious child blocks their stride.

You can be as free as they, if you'll follow the same method. Face facts. Stop blaming God. Blame yourself . . . blamed the Spoiled Brat in yourself. Get rid of that Spoiled Brat. Get out of your own way.

Farmer's Diary: "Backyard Dwellers."

A FIVE-FOOT garter snake makes his home about our woodpile. He is shy, and when someone walks near he will race to cover beneath some protecting block, then turn his head to the light and watch until danger is past.

From the vantage of the east window I have often watched him glide cautiously from hiding and move gracefully away through the grass and weeds. I can follow his course by the slight movements of the slender grasses. His head is close to the ground, but his body is still closer. The forked limber tongue that we often misunderstand as threatening, is actually his keen organ of sound and perhaps of scent.

He has cleared out the mice and rats from the woodpile area. Before he came last spring, these rodents were numerous. Now there are no signs of any.

But a snake's diet, like that of any other living thing, needs variation. Yesterday, east of the path that leads down to the woodpile, I heard a plopping sound. Four different times I heard it, like a soft resilient mass striking the ground. That same garter snake had come upon a heavy toad, grabbed the hind legs, and gulped the body up to the forelegs. The forelegs had a frantic grip outside the snake's jaws, and the toad was struggling with all its might.

The snake reared up its head and slammed the victim in a semi-circle, striking it against the ground. With these four blows the toad was limp and subdued. With great effort and many neck contortions, the body of the toad moved downward, making a big snaky bulge. The outline of the toad's body was plainly visible. Sluggishly the snake crept over to a pile of warm sawdust and went to sleep.

DOWN at the pond's edge I heard a [illegible] of terror that startled me for a moment. Hurrying over to find the trouble, I saw a big bullfrog tugging to get away from a water snake. The snake had hold of one leg, and the frog had screamed. I could not blame him.

These water snakes get as big as my wrist, and reproduce at the rate of 30 to 40 in a season, so we try to kill them, in order to protect other pond dwellers. I grabbed a handy club and struck the snake across the back. He let go the frog and blinked, drew in his popping eyes, and submerged into the ooziest place he could find. By the time I had finished the snake, he was out of sight.

Calculated Risks Must Be Taken.

THOUGH our relations with the Soviet Union are very bad, there is, I think, ground for saying peace can be made. It cannot be made cheaply, that is to say, with soft words which deny that there is a conflict of power or with tough and angry words which some fondly suppose will be sufficient to make the hard men in the Kremlin quake in their boots. The situation in which peace can be established in this world will have to be created initially by a policy of calculated risk—by the strategical application of sufficient American power at a critical point in the immense borderland in Europe and Asia.

LIPPMANN

In the formation of this policy the first consideration is the time, the second is the place, the third is the opportunity.

Time is of the utmost importance. An equilibrium of power has to be attained which compels the nations to negotiate and compromise and collaborate because they cannot impose their will by force. This equilibrium must be in sight, if it is to be attained at all, within about five years, and it must be stabilized within about 10 years.

For after that the will to peace will be weaker. The men who fought and suffered in this war will be too old to be used in the front lines of another war, and there will be a new military generation available for conscription.

After 10 years, Germany and Japan will be again, if not great powers, at the very least important powers, certain to exploit to their own advantage the division among their conquerors.

But until then we shall still be in the postwar period, and it is in this period that power can be used most safely, if it is used wisely, as an instrument of diplomacy. This would be true if rockets, atomic weapons and bacteriological poisons had not been invented. It is all the more true because of them.

The basic condition of peace is that power shall be in equilibrium. This is another way of saying that governments will not resort to war because they can have no expectation of winning it. This basic condition does not exist today.

Europe, the Middle East and China are turbulent from the effects of war and of revolution, and in this turbulence the Russians, the British and the Americans are contending for power. This contest for power will not be halted by an endless series of rearguard and defensive maneuvers from Manchuria through Trieste to Warsaw and Berlin. It can be halted by a confrontation of power at a critical and decisive place.

Real Risk Recognized.

The risk of such an action are real and they are considerable. But they are not so great as the risk of drifting, and of letting the antagonism spread all over the globe, and of having dislike and distrust become fanatical, and of waiting until there is a new military generation armed with the catastrophic weapons.

The Soviet government has made quite plain the place where the issue must be resolved. It is in the eastern Mediterranean, with Turkey as the control point. The Russian demands on Turkey have laid bare the strategy of Anglo-Soviet-American relations, and have provided the opening by which it may now be possible to move effectively in the direction of peace.

The fifth point in the Soviet demands is the crucial point; the Soviets are asking Turkey to agree to let them establish themselves as a military power at the Dardanelles for purposes "of joint defense."

Now, this demand has nothing whatsoever to do with Russia's ancient and legitimate desire for assured access to the open sea.

For Russian troops and airplanes stationed in Turkey cannot assure Russia access to the sea.

In the two world wars Germany closed the Dardanelles and bottled up Russia in the Black Sea by coming overland through the Balkans. The Russian defense against that is to halt the Germans before they can enter the Balkans. The defense of the straits against Germany, if that were what worries the Russians, has to be made on the Danube and beyond

But that is quite plainly not what worries the Russians now. They have secured themselves against Germany by their Balkan and central European alliances, and they are reinsuring themselves, as Molotov's declaration in July made only too plain, by bidding for an eventual alliance with Germany.

The problem of the Dardanelles is, therefore, not the problem of opening them. If it were, Moscow would beg the United States to join them in guaranteeing the Dardanelles. For the Dardanelles will not be open unless they are kept open at both ends

The Russians' preoccupation now is not how to keep the Dardanelles open but how to close them. That is perfectly plain in all their demands.

U. S., Britain Are Targets.

Close them to whom? There is no doubt as to the answer: To the Anglo-Americans, the only powers capable of passing through the Dardanelles in force and of entering the Black Sea.

The Russian view is clear: It is that unless they control Turkey, its government and its army, Britain and America will, in case of war, not only use the Dardanelles to enter the Black Sea with their enormously predominant fleets but they will use the northern coasts of Turkey on the Black Sea as a base for aerial and amphibian attacks on what is the soft underbelly of the Soviet Union.

The Russian demands on Turkey show that the Kremlin knows that this is the vulnerable spot—here the Ukraine, politically the least reliable of the Soviet republics, can be reached. Here the oil, the coal, and much of the food supply of the Soviet Union are within easy range.

This, then, is the place where the issue can best be resolved, and an equilibrium of power restored. Here in the eastern Mediterranean, behind and near Turkey, is the place where the United States, by building up its sea and air power, can most surely compel and induce the Kremlin to negotiate a general world settlement.

Crusaders Add Danger.

There is no denying that in addition to the risk of a violent Russian reaction, there is the risk that here and in Britain there will be important influences moving heaven and earth to convert the policy of restoring the balance of power into an anti-Soviet crusade.

There is no doubt that we are playing with fire, and that this risk must be taken into account. For this is not a policy which cannot fail. This is frankly a policy of calculated risk.

The risk must, it seems to me, be seen clearly and then accepted. For we are in a vicious circle that must soon be broken or we shall later on be drawn into a war of annihilation.

Only a balance of power can end the struggle for power. Only when Soviet and American power confront each other directly at a decisive point will statesmen and people accept the fact that the two systems, the two civilizations, must live in the same world because neither can obliterate the other.

Risk Seen Favorable.

I am in favor of taking the risk, not only because it is a smaller risk than any other, but because I do not doubt that our people really want an honorable peace, and that much as they dislike the totalitarian state, they are willing to try to live with it and let it live.

I count also on the British people, and with them on the French and the highly civilized countries of Europe, to make this a policy of peace and not of war. For this policy assures the survival of Britain as a world power, and that should, that surely will, restore the equanimity even of the irascible Bevin, and to British policy its moderation and magnanimity.

For I believe, indeed I have no doubt, that it has been the weakness and peril of Britain, and nothing worse, which account for so much of recent British policy that is so hard for the ancient friends of Britain to explain and defend.

Youthful Vet To Quit Army

FRANKFURT—(UP)—Pvt. Robert E. Kelso, six-foot 275-pound veteran of three European campaigns at the age of 15, is to be discharged from the U.S. Army for the second time.

Kelso, of Houston, Tex., enlisted in the army in July, 1944, when he was 13 by falsifying his age.

He was sent overseas and fought in Central Europe, the Rhineland and the Ardennes campaigns. He was wounded twice.

He was sent home and marked for transshipment to the Pacific but was discharged when his mother disclosed his age.

But during a visit to Los Angeles last February he signed up again and was sent back to Europe.

Kelso joined a paratroop regiment and made his five practice jumps but tore a ligament and was sent to a hospital. There his true age was discovered again.

HOW DO YOU VOTE ON THIS?

"This new cleaner's a wonder-and best for washing glassware!"

says MRS. PETER SCHULTZ of Wilkes Barre, Pa.

"New Ethyl Cleaner makes glassware sparkle like magic. Leaves no streaks! I use it for delicate tableware, and windows, too! Doesn't scratch! It's kinder to the hands than famous beauty soaps!"

"Is that so? I believe Ethyl Cleaner's best for washing lingerie!"

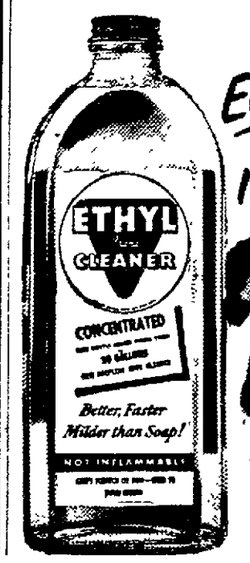
says MRS. VIRGINIA IVESON of Auburn, Mass.

"My undies stay fresh and new-looking since I've been washing them with new Ethyl Cleaner. No harmful scrubbing or wringing. No soapy deposit to stiffen fine fabric! It's quick-acting, but gentle!"

"Believe me, folks. In my opinion it's best for washing the car!"

says MR. A. F. MAY of Kingston, N. Y.

"New Ethyl Cleaner zips the dirt, grime and road film off the car quick as a flash. Those 'soapless suds' just float it away! Believe me, it's a great all-over car wash! For paint, glass, chrome and upholstery!"



Everyone agrees new Ethyl Cleaner is better, faster, milder than soap for so many things!

You'll agree, too, that new Ethyl Cleaner is the best all-round cleaner you've ever used. For woolens, dishes, pots and pans and precious nylons, too! It simply floats the dirt away. Economical, too! A few drops of Ethyl Cleaner — plus water — do the trick! Try it today.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Show business was new to me, and I had a lot to learn, in 1909, when first I met Irving Berlin. I'll never forget the thrill of landing a job in the Ziegfeld "Follies"; the overwhelming excitement of stopping that first show cold with two songs Irving Berlin had written for me. And then—the blinding, baffled hurt of finding myself out in the cold. Why? Because I had gone over so big the show's singing star insisted on my being let out.

"Listen, kid," Irving told me afterward, "this is show business." He told me a lot more, too—about how good he thought I was, and how far he felt I would go

And here I am, thinking back to that talk almost four decades ago. Thinking of all I've learned in the years between. All because of hearing one of Irving's most recent songs, and agreeing so whole-heartedly with the sentiments expressed in it.

The title of the song that started me musing is "There's No Business Like Show Business," and I'd like to explain why I share Irving Berlin's opinion·

There's no business like show business when it comes to a complete absence of prejudice, bigotry and discrimination. We have, and always have had, beloved stars of every race, creed and color . . . George M. Cohan . . . Paul Robeson . . . Al Jolson . . . Enrico Caruso . . . Bert Williams . . . Fannie Brice . . . Anna Pavlova . . . Katina Paxinou . . . Paul Bunl . . . Bill Robinson. You know there is genuine democracy in a profession where hundreds of names such as these can all be further identified by one, and only one word, "artist."

The path of stardom is through the hearts of your audience. You can't make people love you unless you love people. Actors love people, and when you see them playing a benefit to help unfortunates, you'll always notice one thing: Whether the worthy cause is for the needy people of your faith, my faith or any other faith—the performers who help it along, giving unstintingly of their time and talents, are of a dozen different faiths.

There are three ways of getting old, and being in show business automatically vetoes all three. The first way is to "let yourself go," stop caring how you dress and look. In show business—no can do. The gowns have to be new and glamorous, the coiffure has to be gleaming and modern. the makeup has to be able to stand mass inspection with the spotlights gleaming full blast.

The second way is to become bored and crawl into your shell. Impossible, friends. For a performer, that is. We're in London today, on Broadway tomorrow, in Hollywood the next day and so on. We're always going places, getting acquainted with the whole world and all its inhabitants, learning new things and catching the excitement of opening nights.

The third way is to refuse to accept change, start living in the past. You can't ever do that in this none-other-like-it business. Too much happening that you must keep up with—talking pictures, radio, television —w ho knows what next? If you live in the past you narrow your audience down to a public composed of folks your own age and older. That's no way to make new fans, and no smart performer will risk it.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, September 6.

IMPORTANT openings for future progress, dependability and security are indicated by the current chain of planetary aspects. Major projects of far-reaching scope and expansion should be studied and evaluated by calm, practical and constructive consideration, since the issues may be deemed of more than superficial significance.

Keen business acumen, attention to details and techniques, may be the avenue of making contacts with those in places of authority and professional worth. Impetuous, rash, intemperate procedures may jeopardize this, or the health may be threatened

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of excellent promise for progress, promotion, preferments at the hands of those in place and power. Propositions and objectives of major and long-range importance are encouraged, but with a calm, systematic and soundly planned technique, not a reckless, aggressive and tempestuous campaign.

Important decisions come up in co-operation with those in advanced place and prestige But make secure the underlying factors. Also, have consideration for the health of body and mind, lest impulse or emotions prove detrimental to cherished hopes and desires.

A child born on this day may have excellent abilities for a progressive and constructive career, attaining approbation and aid from superiors. It may suffer from over-zeal or impetuosity.

Hasty Marriage Risky If Veteran Was Wounded

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Marry in haste, repent at leisure" may be just about twice as true when you marry a wounded veteran about whom you know little or nothing.

Don't get me wrong now It's one thing where a girl was engaged before her man was wounded, or at least was sufficiently acquainted with him, and his background to know what sort of person he was and where she fully understood the nature of his wounds, and what she would be up against in that respect after they were married

But it's an entirely different matter when, after the briefest of acquaintanceships, she rushes into marriage with a man whose injuries are of a type that might conceivably have affected his whole personality, even his mentality Under such circumstances she may ignorantly be assuming a terrific liability instead of gaining a devoted husband, and risk her entire life's happiness.

That is the position in which a girl who writes the following letter fears that she may have placed herself.

"Two months ago," she writes, "I married a soldier that I had known only a short while I loved him very much Having re-enlisted, he left for overseas one week after our marriage and I am now living with my parents.

"He told me I was not entitled to an allotment, as the soldiers were given a $100 raise and that would take care of my support. I suppose I was too much in love to give it much thought at the time, but I have since investigated and found that soldiers were given no raise, and that I am entitled to an allotment This makes me doubt everything he has told me

I know nothing about his family as they reside in a distant state He told me he owned a band in his home state and also a brick home He ends one of the richest men in his state, nationally known his boss and said he rode his horses in the races Now that he is overseas he writes me that he has a German car and radio, has bought a new trumpet and saxaphone and that he has a beautiful room He says he will see about arranging my transportation to join him as soon as he gets settled I can't understand how he would have a beautiful room as he is only a PFC or how he could have bought all those other things when he told me he had no money when he left

He has a plate in his head and one arm is injured due to battle wounds, and I wonder why he was accepted for re-enlistment

I am 18 and he is 26 Do you think I'm wrong in doubting these things my husband has told me?

No, under such circumstances as you describe I should think it was perfectly natural to doubting him, and that there was a strong probability that your doubts have a basis in fact

But it is hard to understand how you could have been so foolish as to marry this man while knowing so little about him. It does not by any means follow that just because a man has a plate in his head, he is necessarily incompetent. But you certainly should have checked with someone thoroughly familiar with his injury to make sure that in his particular case there was no danger of mental difficulty. It may be that this would account for his extravagant claims.

Even though so unfortunately late I'd advise you to do some checking on this man before letting any more time go by—certainly before you think of going overseas to join him. The Veterans Administration Center in your own city should be able to tell you how to go about it, and you might also write to the man he claimed as a "boss" to see if this man has any knowledge of your husband And obviously his own family would be the source of the most information.

Creative Play Quiets and Amuses Young Children

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

When your child enters kindergarten or the first grade, he may lag in some respects if he has not acquired an interest in creative play, with blocks, crayons and at make-believe.

Moreover, this child may incline to move about constantly and more or less aimlessly. Nothing quite so quieting as most creative play.

Of a lad five, his mother writes: "It seems to me he is far behind in imagination. Books have never appealed to him. Recently, you wrote of Karen and Kenty and a playmate playing beautifully with blocks. Coloring has no appeal whatever. Scissors and paper, maybe five minutes. Clay? No interest there.

"He wants to stay where I am and talk to me, or watch me, and ask questions, which is all right occasionally, but I like to see a child amuse himself in play. He is a restless and very active child, and has been so always Sitting down seems to be most difficult. In the house he would like to run, ride his tricycle, slide his feet across the floor, anything but interest himself in a quiet boy. Have I failed somewhat in cultivating in him a creative imagination?"

In answering her, I commended her on her many wise ways with this lad and her success at self-management. I reminded her that some children have more motor interest than other children, and that she should not expect him to dwell long at play with a single toy. I hope she does not nag at him about putting his playthings away constantly.

I urged her to read to him a great deal, especially from folklore and other imaginative materials; to show appreciation of anything he builds or creates from things or words, and to play informally for a few minutes now and then with him at make-believe. I enclosed my bulletin, "Now Come the Fairies."

Earlier in her letter she writes: "Our household is much more enjoyable for the use of some of your teachings Substituting the 'chair' for the paddle, or 'jawing,' as you put it, has quieted the atmosphere immensely, and has brought much better results. Then, too, there is a certain tone or spirit that I have caught. I find myself trying to solve my problems as you would.

"I know your method would be definite, consistent, without anger, and loving I don't wonder at the behavior of my little boy when I look back over his first four years for I had no definite method of control I 'stood' things as long as I could, then I spanked, usually in anger. Now, isn't that foolish, really, for it does nothing but give vent to one's own emotions?

"Then I want to thank you for your letter helping me on a personal problem with Bobby, now five. How grateful I am for the improvement he has made! His kindergarten teacher marvelled over the change in him. He has two teachers who, I think, were born to work with children, and Bobby is bubbling over with joy in his school activities

"Also, I have solved his outdoor group-play problem and he never, so far as I am able to observe, takes aggressive action, and his play is happy and smooth. As you will recall, he was always picking a quarrel in the playground when I wrote you last year."

Countess Braved Death To Rescue Fallen Fliers

has become in the intervening years, thoroughly French, even to her accent, a delightfully informal English, totally un-American.

Since 1912, she had re-visited America each four years until war put a stop to her travels and launched her into an exciting dangerous mission with the French underground.

Only Ones To Escape.

The privations, the danger, the intrigue of the years when France felt the heel of German occupation, are etched too strongly on her mind for a moment of forgetfulness.

"It was not the war," she declared, "so much as the occupation that was terrible to endure It was the brutal treatment of the Germans. I don't consider them civilized people. They committed atrocities that no savage would think of committing."

Madame Payen knows about those atrocities. She fought with the underground to rescue fallen aviators and see that they returned safely to the borders. She and her husband were a link in the escape lines of Shellburn, Comete and Alsace.

"My husband and I and one other were the only three who escaped capture in those lines," she revealed.

Farmers Helped.

Asked how she and her husband made contact with the downed fliers, Madame Payen answered, "we got them through the farmers, from the countryside. They came to our home and we fed them and clothed them and helped them gain a safe escape to the borders. Our French aviators were sent to Africa, the American, Polish and others to England.

"We got our food from the country. We went on the railroad and we walked; mostly walked. I had been able to rescue a pass from the Germans through a munitions manufacturing friend who registered me as secretary of the firm, so I was never molested."

Hundreds Rescued.

"How did you get the food back into Paris and into your home?"

"I brought it in a suitcase," she said simply. "And because I declared my luggage, it was never opened."

"Just what did you declare?".

"Oh," she answered casually, as if it had been of no moment whatever and as if those hours spent in railroad stations with her suitcases of food had not been moments of tense anxiety, "I simply said I had something we were allowed to have."

Hundreds of fliers, among them 150 Americans, were rescued in this way.

Although she has not been able to see any of the rescued American fliers while here, she has had letters from them.

"They are too widely scattered," she said, "to see them. Some are in Texas and other far parts of the country."

* * *

Interested In Politics.

Madame Payen is definitely interested in French politics. Asked her opinion of France's future, and of its Premier Georges Bidault, she answered.

"We will come through. Bidault is a nice man but not too strong. But France doesn't need strong men. Frenchmen are easily led. Now Americans are more strong minded. They need strong men to lead them."

She gave a totally different version of DeGaulle's departure from the French scene of politics.

"When he had spent all the gold in the Bank of France," she declared, "he got out, since he couldn't carry on without gold."

The recent communist defeat shows clearly, Madame Payen said, that "Russia is not as much a friend of ours as we thought."

Madame Payen is leaving America Sept. 23 to return to France to continue her work with the intelligence in locating missing fliers, many of whom, she says, still are in concentration camps and in allied territories in spite of official notice of their deaths.

AUTO MISHAPS INJURE THREE

Ashland and Indiana Women, Boy, 6, Victims.

Three motorists today were reported suffering injuries as a result of two traffic accidents east of Mansfield.

Injured were Mrs. Payne Swafford, 31, Elletsville, Ind., brain concusion; Duane Moore, 6, same address, lacerations of the chin; and Mrs. Ollie Brubaker, 74, 629 Jefferson street, Ashland, cuts on the head and possible fractured hip and internal injuries.

Mrs. Swafford was injured when a car driven by Paul E. Sloam, 31, Ashland, R. D. 1, crashed ianto the rear of the Moore car while it was parked in the line of traffic during a fog at 5:30 a. m. today on U. S. Route 42 five miles northeast of Mansfield.

Boy Becomes Ill.

State highway patrol officers said that Duane Moore, riding the rear seat, had become ill, and the driver, Alvin C. Moore, Elletsville, Ind., had stopped to permit him to dismount.

Mrs. Swafford had opened the door and stepped out when Sloam, unable to stop in time, crashed into the rear of the Moore car, causing the open door to knock her down.

No arrests were made and only slight damage was caused to the cars, officers said.

Woman Hurt In Ashland.

Mrs. Brubaker was struck by a car driven by Russell McBride, Wellington, while crossing Lincoln way, in Ashland at about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday. Hospital attaches reported her condition as fair today.

Police Chief Harry Smith said witnesses to the accident asserted that Mrs. Brubaker, evidently confused, walked in front of McBride's car just after he had started away from a traffic light.

McBride's car was badly damaged when he swerved it over the sidewalk into a tree in an effort to avoid hitting Mrs. Brubaker.

Graham was also a member of the Mansfield C. of C. and the Kiwanis club, the First Congregational church, a number of Masonic orders, and Westbrook Country club.

Mrs. Graham, who has also been active in civic affairs, is resigning her position as Girl Scout commissioner. She has served as a member of the Regional Girl Scout committee.

The Grahams live, with their two daughters, Verna Beth and Marilynn, at 514 Marion avenue. Miss Verna Beth Graham left for Granville today to enroll in Denison university. Miss Marilynn Graham is a pupil at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school. His family plans to join Graham at Morgantown later in the year.

Regarding his leaving Graham said: "After 13 years with The News-Journal and nearly two decades with the Mansfield community and the same publishing organization, it is possible to go away in fact but not in spirit. The community and its newspaper will continue with both my family and myself as part of our thoughts and conversation. It will be gratifying to recall the pleasant and active times these years have afforded us. That we wish the best in growth and welfare to Mansfield and The News-Journal goes without saying."

Loses His Bond, Goes to Jail

Robert Kissell, 29, of 279 Bulkley avenue was held in county jail today after his bondsman was relieved by Municipal court last night.

Kissell's bondsman, O. K. Wade, also of 279 Bulkley avenue, had complained that Kissell was going to leave town when he asked to be relieved of the bond, according to Paul W. Ritchie, municipal clerk of courts.

The Bulkley avenue resident and his wife had been bound to the grand jury on $500 bond each July 15 after pleading innocent to a charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of $300 from a purse left in a city taxicab.

Wade was still on Mrs. Kissell's bond, Ritchie said.

Two months ago the executive committee of the Community Fund turned down the pleas of 14 war-time agencies, including USO, for inclusion in the Mansfield campaign drive. Fred B. Hout, president of the Community Fund said that this step was deemed necessary because of two reasons: to clarify the issue for the local agencies, and because the Mansfield Community Fund was set up primarily to raise funds for local agencies. Funds for 18 war-related agencies were raised by the Richland County War Chest during the war years.

The 11 Red Feather agencies of the Community Fund are: The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, YWCA, Friendly House, Salvation Army, St. Vincent dePaul Society, Milk Fund and Student Aid, Visiting Nurse association, Hospital Bureau and the Dental Clinic.

Hout today announced the resignation of Roy Waxler from the Community Fund budget committee after four years of service. Waxler was recently appointed a member of the Public Appeals Review board, and because no committee member of any fund raising organization may serve on the review board, Waxler resigned from the Community Fund to hold his place on the board. Hout said Waxler's place on the budget committee will be filled immediately so that a new member might serve on the budget hearings next week.

that of Shiloh village school district. Voters there will be asked to approve five mills for five years for operating expenses. If passed, the levy would call for an additional real estate tax 50 cents on each $100 of valuation.

The lone non-school levy is for the establishment of a Mansfield city recreation program. The rate two-tenths of a mill for five years, would provide a two-cent tax per $100 of property valuation.

Mansfield's school district also is proposing teacher salary boosts. It wants a three-mill levy for that purpose, to run for five years.

Others Ask Levies.

Other school boards which have asked for additional tax levies outside the 10-mill limitation are:

Lucas—Two mills for five years for current operating expenses.

Mifflin—Four mills for five years for current expenses.

Lexington—Three mills for three years for current expenses.

Union rural—Four mills for five years for current expenses.

Asking for renewal of levies for current expenses already in effect are Bellville and Madison schools. Each levy would be at the rate of three mills. Bellville's for three years and Madison's for five years.

Already filed with the board of elections are the levies of Madison, Mansfield and Shelby schools, the Mansfield city recreation proposal and the Shelby school bond issue.

George C. Balliet, chairman of the board of elections, said he expected the board would consider for approval the issues and levies at its regular monthly meeting Sept. 20.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN, GRANARY AT N. ROBINSON

Grain, Farm Machinery and Horses Lost in Blaze Wednesday.

TIRO — Fire destroyed two barns, a garage, a granary, a large assortment of farm equipment, three horses and a quantity of grain and hay on the H. G. McMichael farm west of North Robinson yesterday morning.

Believed to have been started by spontaneous combustion, the blaze was first discovered in the hay mow of the barn, a 40 by 88 foot structure, by the owner's father, Roy McMichael, and Carl McMichael who were working nearby.

McMichael, former Crawford county state highway department superintendent, and his wife are vacationing in Canada.

The two McMichaels, aided by neighbors, prevented the fire from spreading to adjacent barn, a straw stack, and to the house but were unable to save the buildings which burned to the ground in an hour. Fifteen hogs in the hog barn were driven to safety.

Roy McMichael received slight burns on one arm while fighting the fire. No one else was injured.

A pumper from the Crestline fire department arrived at the farm about 1:30 p. m. and extinguished the fire in the granary with water hauled to the scene in a state highway water wagon and a water wagon belonging to Harvey Leipley, a neighbor.

An estimated 2,500 bushels of oats, and 400 to 500 bushels of wheat were in the 24 by 30 foot granary. Only a small portion of the grain was totally destroyed. The remainder is suitable for use as hog feed, it is believed. Fifty tons of hay in the barn burned late into the afternoon and were a total loss.

A farm truck, two wagons, two feed grinders, a hammer mill, corn binder, mowing machine and many small machines and farm tools stored in the garage and barn were destroyed or damaged beyond repair. A hay loader and farm tractor also owned by McMichael were not in the buildings.

Two of the three horses burned to death in the barn had been used during the morning and were harnessed.

Mr. and Mrs. McMichael are not expected to return from their trip until Monday. Mr. McMichael's father and family were the only persons on the farm yesterday morning.

The state highway department water wagon which was in use on State Route 39 between Tiro and Shelby when a call was put in to the highway garage at Bucyrus was rushed to the fire by Carl Stuckman.

Second Farm Fire Takes Heavy Toll

BUCYRUS — The second farm fire within a week resulted in loss of a large barn, tool shed, granary and several heads of horses and hogs at the H. G. McMichael farm east of Bucyrus, Tuesday night.

The fire is believed to have started in a hay stack. Three horses and 15 hogs were lost in the flames which threatened other outbuildings and buildings on the opposite side of the highway. Efforts of neighbors in wetting down nearby structures were responsible for saving them.

Crestline Attacks Parking Meter and Traffic Problem

CRESTLINE—At its Tuesday meeting city council took up the problem of parking meters and instructed the city clerk, Miss Marie Schill, to advertise for bids. A committee composed of Mayor A. P. Sonner, Solicitor F. B. Cattey and Police Chief Paul Kinder was authorized to prepare a parking-meter ordinance.

The street commissioner, Erwin Eckert, and Kinder were instructed to make a survey of necessary traffic signs needed.

A discussion, regarding traffic congestion on Sunday mornings at the North Thoman and Main street intersection where several Crestline churches are located, was held.

Kinder was instructed to have an officer at the intersection on Sundays between 9 and 12 noon to check traffic conditions. Later council will contact the state highway department to ask that a traffic light be placed there.

Jack Hauck, extra fireman serving in the absence of Henry Gehrisch who is ill, was employed as a regular fireman and the department will now operate on three eight-hour shifts.

Mayor Sonner and Solicitor Cattey were instructed to obtain a lease for the Water Works from J. Paul Hont to dig test wells.

Council granted permission to the Meyers Brothers Coal & Feed store to install a gasoline pump between the sidewalk and curbing for their own use at the property on East Bucyrus street.

The resignation of Councilman Oscar Tracht was submitted and accepted, and also accepted the plot of the Fetter subdivision on the County Line road, north of Main street.

The pay ordinance amounted to $2,054.97 and Mayor Sonner reported $79.50 received in fines.

20 Are Arrested In Holmes County

MILLERSBURG — Wayne D. Starner, sheriff of Holmes county, reports 20 arrests for the month of August. The greatest number was for intoxication, thefts running second. Nature of the arrests and number made for each were:

Intoxication, six; stealing, four; investigation, three; disorderly conduct and run away, two each; hit and run, mental and obstructing an officer, each one. Harold Holden, 21, Killbuck, paid a fine of $50 and costs assessed by Justice E. M. Cox before whom he pleaded guilty to intoxication and disorderly conduct. He was arrested recently by Sheriff Wayne D. Starner in Killbuck.

GALION — Two city firemen were assured attendance at the International Fire Fighters Association convention at Toledo next week when city council passed a motion to allow for their expenses.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE DELAYED

Strike, Material Shortages Hit Shelby Waterworks.

SHELBY — Two municipal improvement programs face delays due to a strike and shortage of materials, Supt. J. P. Adkins disclosed today.

The third filter bed at the Municipal Water company cannot be installed for an indefinite time because of the shortages of materials, Supt. Adkins said. The third bed had been recommended in a survey made by the Floyd Brown sanitary engineers so that the other two filter beds could be renewed with new sand.

Addition of a third boiler to the Municipal Light company is being delayed due to a strike at the Babcock and Wilcox Manufacturing company. The firm had been given the contract to construct the boiler on its low bid of $141,000 more than a year ago. The building to house the boiler has been started by Friebel and Hartman, Shelby contractors.

The complete drawings for the third boiler have not been submitted as yet and prospects for getting the boiler installed and into operation before the middle of next summer are dim, Supt. Adkins stated.

STARTS FIRM AT NEW LONDON

D. M. Weekly Opens Machine Shop; Plans Expansion.

NEW LONDON—New London Service center, latest of the four local industrial shops to be established, is completed and already in operation, D. M. Weekly, owner, said today.

Thomas Sharp and Vernon Crislip are operating the machine shop and as rapidly as material and equipment are received, other branches will get under way.

Weekly said he plans to have a complete business under one roof for the reconversion of heating plants, retooling of machines, overhauling and repair of trucks and later a complete sawmill.

The plant is of concrete block construction, approximately 50 by 66 feet and 11 feet high. It is located just off North Clifton avenue, almost directly opposite the Weekly grain elevator.

SOLONS REJECT BOND ISSUES

Hospital Addition and Street Mending Turned Down.

BUCYRUS — Reconsidering a week-old decision to place bond issues for street improvement and a city hospital addition before voters in November, Bucyrus city council Tuesday night voted unanimously to turn down the issues. The issues under consideration were one for $150,000 for street improvements and another for $275,000 for a hospital addition.

The issues were killed by action of the ordinance and resolutions committee following a meeting with council members who met as a committee.

At the same time the committee approved the two-tenths mill tax levy for city park operation, assuring the levy a place on the November ballot.

Tuesday's council meeting was marked by the appearance of a large number of spectators, a number of whom expressed themselves as opposed to the issues at this time.

Area Meetings

RESUME WORK ON TIRO PLANT

Workers Return to Frozen Food Lockers Job.

TIRO—Workmen of the Brothers Chase and Fogle company, of Canton, are back at work blowing insulation into the Tiro Frozen Food Locker plant again this week. They plan to complete the work by Friday evening.

The work was interrupted some time ago when a fire broke out in the motor. The truck was out of commission three days but the damage was slight. Archie Kintz, Virgil Meyers and Winton Leonard operate the equipment.

A freight car arrived in Tiro this week containing the compressor units, and locker doors for installation. The lockers are expected soon and work of installing them will start in about 10 days, according to L. M. Pope, of the locker company. Emmett and Howard Flegm and John Poffenbaugh are at work on the plastering.

Unions Triple In 10 Years

CIO BEGAN DECADE AGO AFTER SPLIT

Rivalry, Expanding Output of Industry, Help to Expand Labor Organizations.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ten years ago today the American Federation of Labor suspended ten unions for refusing to disband a committee they had created.

The committe was known as the committee for industrial organization, or CIO.

From that day, the CIO has been on its own.

During those ten years American labor unions have more than tripled their membership from 4,700,000 to 15,000,000.

All Claim Gains.

The CIO began with something more than 1,000,000. It now claims more than 6,000,000. In the same decade the AFL has risen from less than 3,000,000 to a claim of more than 7,000,000. Independent unions have gained, too.

Much of the boom in union strength was due to the CIO's successful drives to organize modern mass-production industries.

Part of it sprang from CIO-AFL rivalry, which drove AFL unions to greater efforts.

But two other factors counted tremendously:

1. These ten years have been a period of expanding production, the best time to organize workers.

2. The government, after more than a century of either opposing or tolerating unions, began helping them. The National Industrial Recovery act in 1933, and then the National Labor Relations act in 1935, stated the right of workers to join unions and be represented in collective bargaining by persons of their own choosing. Employers who interfered were punished.

The CIO was founded Nov. 9, 1935, with John L. Lewis as chairman. This event was the aftermath of a violent struggle at the 1935 convention of the AFL at Atlantic City.

The industrial unions of the AFL, led by Lewis, wanted the AFL to go out and organize millions into industrial unions. This meant lumping the workers of a given industry—like steel—into one union regardless of what type of work they did.

Crafts Oppose Idea.

Craft union leaders in the AFL fought the idea. Craft union includes people who do a certain type of skilled work—like carpenters, or electricians—regardless of whether they work in the same industry.

The Lewis faction was outvoted and replied by creating the CIO and launching organizing drives without AFL permission. In January, 1936, the AFL executive council ordered the CIO to disband. It refused. Therefore on Aug. 5, 1936, the council suspended the CIO unions, effective one month later unless the "insurrectionists" decided to behave. On Sept. 5 the suspension took effect.

Lewis at the time was asked whether the suspended unions would form a rival federation. He replied: "Outcasts must organize to protect themselves against the beasts of the forest and other nocturnal prowlers."

In 1938 the executive council revoked the charters of the CIO unions.

The CIO changed its name to "Congress of Industrial Organizations" and elected Lewis president.

From the beginning the CIO was active in politics.

Lewis supported President Roosevelt in 1936 but broke with him in 1940 and threatened to quit as CIO head if Roosevelt were re-elected. Roosevelt won. Lewis quit. Vice President Philip Murray became president.

In 1942 Lewis yanked his United Mine Workers from the CIO. And last January he took them back into the AFL.

As he did so, he predicted a gradual unifying of labor.

Will the AFL and the CIO merge soon? The answer to that question in labor circles is "Ha-Ha-Ho-Ho."

What prevents it?

Some say ideological differences. AFL leaders say these differences are all-important.

EIGHTEEN ESTONIANS, who found German and Russian rule of their once-free land oppressive, are shown as they sailed into Miami, Fla., crowded aboard an old 38-foot sloop after 30 days on the Atlantic sailing from Spanish Maderia. They have no permission to land in the U. S., and immigration authorities are considering disposition of the matter.

There is a question of personalities. Walter Reuther, president of the CIO Auto Workers, was asked recently why labor can't settle its internal warfare. He replied:

"Too many swivel chairs."

CRESTLINE HAS 768 ENROLLED

Grim Walls Shadow 75 Years Of Ohio's Criminal Parade

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The watchtowers that stud the forbidding gray walls around Ohio penitentiary here have looked down on a 75-year-long parade of criminals through the gates near the quiet Scioto river.

From thieves to murders, from such men as O. Henry, the famous writer who was imprisoned there for three years in 1898, to "Bugs" Moran, onetime gangland king who was sentenced to the penitentiary recently for an inexpertly-bungled holdup, the watchtowers have stood guard over a strange cross-section of humanity.

There have been 249 executions inside of the gaunt walls since the first hanging on July 31, 1885. Twenty-seven convicts were hung until electrocution was instituted on April 21, 1897. Since then there have been 249 electrocutions.

Perhaps the most famous single execution in Ohio penitentiary was that of Anna Hahn, on Dec. 12, 1938. She was the only woman ever executed in Ohio, although several had been sentenced and later had their sentences commuted to life imprisonment.

Anna Hahn's history reads like something out of a grade-B movie scenario. To this day no one knows for sure how many people Anna Hahn murdered—by the simple method of poison.

She was a swindler who ingratiated herself with elderly men and women, tricked them out of their savings and then killed them with her home-cooked meals. Anna was an excellent cook. She was not beautiful, but her charm was as undeniable as it was elusive.

She would systematically cover a tenement house in Cincinnati where she lived after her arrival from Germany in 1929, find out if any old men lived in it and then introduce herself as a long-lost niece in desperate need of financial assistance.

Anna got away with her racket for about seven years before she was finally caught. It was a matter of backyard gossip that Anna Hahn poisoned old men.

Altogether five known old men died of arsenical poisoning after having turned over money to Anna or taken out insurance naming her as beneficiary.

When Anna Hahn finally was caught in 1937, she protested her innocence. Her only witness was her 11-year-old son. In her cellar a bottle of arsenic was found. Her purse was saturated with it, and the lint in the bottom of it contained enough arsenic grains to kill a man.

Up to the very day of her execution Anna insisted she had been framed. She had to be carried into the electrocution chamber, screamingly violently and struggling with matrons.

They placed her in the electric chair forcibly. To the end she screamed she was not guilty.

BRAZIL HARBORS YELLOW TERROR

Secret Society Has Control of Jap Colonists.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(U.P.)—The "yellow terror" still goes on in Brazil.

Police have done their best, but in six months in the small town of Bastos, Sao Paulo, 10 Japanese have been killed and 13 more seriously injured.

This is the work of the Japanese society Shindo Remmi. The aims of Shindo Remmei are to control Japanese colonists in Brazil and to keep in their hearts "the old faith in the emperor and in the supremacy of the empire."

For a Japanese colonist to admit that Japan was defeated means his death sentence.

His name is placed on the "list of traitors who must die" and he will be murdered.

There is no escape from Shindo Remmei.

"Our arm has thousands of hands," said one of its agents, Shushui Nakamura, when he was put in jail by the police of Sao Paulo.

The Japanese of Brazil know that. Some of them have committed suicide when they learned that their names were included in the list of traitors.

"You cannot fight against fate," one of the colonists wrote to his wife just before blowing out his brains.

The help of the army has been requested by the police of the state of Sao Paulo, where the largest Japanese colony is located.

That help was particularly necessary in the town of Oswaldo Cruz, where the natives decided to lynch some Japanese in revenge for the murder of a Brazilian taxi driver by a Brazalian-born Japanese.

The murderer escaped but many Japanese were tied to horses and dragged over the stony fields near the town. After 48 hours of riots between the natives and Japanese, the army restored order.

More than 150 Japanese received aid at hospitals.

But the armed forces do not want to become too involved in the Shindo Remmei affair.

Military Prosecutor Gastao Ferreira de Almeida said recently "Those are not crimes against the security of the nation. They're just a spasmodic phenomenon among the Japanese themselves."

These Japanese themselves keep quiet. They say not a word about the matter. They do not accuse Shindo Remmei. Everyone of them hopes he will not be condemned by the long arm of Japan.

Tell Ladies Secrets of Man-Hunting

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— If you're male, happy, and minus such obvious defects as schizophrenia or water on the knee—stay out of Manhattan tonight.

Five hundred women will be busy man-hunting around Times Square, and they'll know all the answers.

The ladies, traps in hands, will meet in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor to be briefed by experts on what—or what not—to do to get their man.

Harris Shevelson, managing editor of Coronet magazine, who should know better, will be moderator. Tennis Star Alice Marble (with no apparent male of her own) is on the board of experts.

There are six "do's, and seven "don'ts."

For the benefit of the 13,000,000 single females in the United States who can't be present, here are the rules:

1. Blueprint the minimum requirements you'll accept in a man, and stick to them. (Don't approve baldheads and then switch suddenly to yearning for a gent with curly locks, just at the moment when your hairless friend is prepared to propose. That's wasted effort, and the experts don't approve.)

2. If you must work, choose a job where men out-number women about 10 to 1. (Of course, if you're on the homely side, you'd better increase this ratio at 20 to 1.)

3. If you're taken for granted in your own hometown, pull up and leave.

4. As long as you're moving, be sure to go west. Women are fewer out there, and more appreciated.

5. Attend conventions, dances, taffy pulls; anything where you're apt to bump into a boy on the loose.

6. Once you meet a man, see him often.

No. 1 on the negative list is "don't overdress."

2. Dont try to be the life of the party.

3. Dont talk about your job.

4. Dont attempt to alter your personality to suit his. (If you like Cary Grant, and he doesn't just say to hell with it and keep going to see Cary.)

5. Dont make it too obvious that matrimony is your aim. (Wait at least two seconds before answering, "I will.")

6. Don't let your family close in too swiftly. (Always remember, he may get jittery and change his mind if he sees Uncle Elmer.)

7. Just because you think you've landed him, don't go around bragging about it.

Well, there you are. If you need any more help, come up to the Astor.

Winchell — On Broadway

DAMON RUNYON, in case it escaped your attention, embroidered another essay in the N. Y. Journal-American the other afternoon. . . . It dealt with a conversation we had one recent ayem while covering the Misery Patrol. . . . In fact, nearly every 2 and 6 ayem (and sometimes until 10) Mr. Runyon was our only companion during the six weeks' holiday from the typewriter and microphones. . . . The Misery Patrol is that beat covering Manhattan from the Battery to Washington Heights (in and out of side streets) from river to river. . . . Nearly all of the short-wave police signal 32s and 30s dealt with unhappy New Yorkers who were in trouble. . . . Mr. Runyon wrote several exciting colyums about them, and his word-magic (usually without notes) kept this chauffeur constantly intrigued. . . . In his 60s now, Damon Runyon, let the old and newcomers be reminded, is a great reporter.

If you missed reading his colyum last week about the legless man tackling an antagonist on West 51st street "in the tubercular light of early morning" as he put it—then dig it up. . . . You will see reportage at its very best. . . . We were prowling in the car that 5:15 ayem in the 18th Precinct, which starts on the north side of 42nd street west of Fifth avenue and ends on this side of the 59th street tracks—over to the Hudson.

The legless mendicant, we learned, had been kicked by a burly drunk a few moments before we happened on the scene near Broadway and 51st street. . . . There were no cops. . . . Only two handfuls of spectators spellbound by the fight. . . . Suddenly the legless one threw the other to the gutter where he proceeded to strangle him—or so it appeared. . . . He had a lethal hook on the fellow's neck and he punctuated his remarks with: "Now watch him go to sleep!"

Suddenly all went still. . . . The crowd gasped. . . . There was no sign of life from the one pinned down. . . . "Good God," I said to Runyon, "let's stop it! He's killing him. This is a murder!" . . . I started to intervene. . . . Jerking my sleeve and pulling me back, Runyon said: "Mind your business!" . . . Someone in the group, however, talked to the legless one, who released his grip to listen, during which breather the other jumped up and ran.

* * *

As we rolled along Broadway to an alarm of fire in the next precinct, I said: "That was terrible. Why did you stop me that way?"

"It's dangerous," intoned Damon, "to interfere in matters like that. Besides, I have never seen a murder."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—The Daily Worker, the voice of the international Communist conspiracy, has justified the murder of five unarmed American army flyers by Joseph Broz, Croatian Communist, known as Marshad Tito. In a Washington dispatch, published on Aug. 21, under hte head: "Yugoslav Crisis Was Made In U. S. A." the Worker said: "The U. S. state department ignored repeated Yugoslav complaints concerning unauthorized flights over Yugoslav territory until two of those planes were shot down. This fact, which sheds new light on who is responsible for the growing tension between the U. S. and Yugoslavia, was learned by the Daily Worker today—"

The American planes were flying on peaceful errands over a country which, by decision of the late President Roosevelt, was delivered from captivity under Hitler to captivity under Stalin.

In submission to the Communist conspiracy, directed from Moscow, the United States had abandoned General Drazha Mikhailovich, the commander of the Chetniks, who had set up the original counter-attack against the Nazis. Because Mikhailovich was no less hostile to the Red terror than to Hitler's Brown bolshevism, the Communists in Moscow and the United States arranged for Tito's return to Yugoslavia. With American arms and by the aid of American soldiers, Tito ultimately became Josef Stalin's governor and subdictator. He had studied Bolshevik treachery as a science in Russia and had soldiered with the Communists in Spain.

Howard Fast, a writer for many Communist publications, published a booklet in 1944, called "The Incredible Tito," in which he boasted that the money to finance Tito's return to Yugoslavia was provided by the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee of the United States.

Some Americans who contributed money and prestige to this committee may have believed that they were guilty of no more sinister act than the name of the committee implied.

Innocently or knowingly, those who gave money to the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee did finance the rise to Tito against the patriot, Mikhailovich. Mikhailovich found himself fighting both the Nazi and Tito's Partisans and was alleged to have "collaborated" with German and Italian officers in the later stages of his resistance in order to obtain weapons for the fight against Moscow. This may have been true because, by that time, Stalin, through Tito, had become a more dangerous enemy of Yugoslavia than Hitler and Mussolini. A few weeks ago, not withstanding the fact that he had rescued many American flyers who fell into Yugoslavia fighting with the Nazis, and notwithstanding his record of cooperation with the Americans and British, Mikhailovich was "tried" by Tito's bolshevik regime and shot as a patriotic enemy of his traitorous countryman, Tito.

The United States would not or could not save Mikhailovich from the firing squad of the dictator who, a short time later, shot down five friendly American aviators on a harmless errand who had lost their way. Here was a historic desertion of a friend by the American government.

Louis Adamic, a naturalized immigrant from Yugoslavia, mentioned forty times in the official report of the Dies committee on un-American activities, revealed himself as an intellectual but distinctly non-combatant partisan of Tito in his new dodger entitled "Dinner at the White House."

Adamic, in common with the Communists, opposed the British plan to take the Balkan route to Germany in the invasion of Europe, a course which Churchill designed to frustrate Stalin's program of imperial domination. Roosevelt was persuaded and Adamic's fellow travelers won their way.

The five young Americans died for that policy, possibly only the first American dead in a war between Russia's Red fascism and western civilization. At any rate they were slaughtered without a chance to fight when they lost their way and flew over Yugoslavia. The enemy who killed them, instead of guiding them to a safe landing according to custom among friendly nations, was Marshal Tito, the hero of Howard Fast and Louis Adamic

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By JACK GUINN
(For Hal Boyle)

BUDAPEST — (AP) — Fabulous Budapest, where only weeks ago the U. S. dollar would buy anything for sale and some things that were not, has become so expensive that the average American family here is spending about $1,000 a month.

In July a family of three could sit in the lap of luxury for $200.

The effect of the Hungarian government's stabilization program on Americans in Budapest was startling. During Hungary's inflation — a precedent-shattering economic disintegration in which one U. S. dollar would buy five hundred quintillion pengos—every night was Saturday night in Budapest. As one GI put it: "Americans never had it so good."

Villas rented for $10 and $15 a month and owners with an eye on the Russian occupation troops sometimes would hand them over for nothing just to get the American flag on the floor. Servants would work for $5 a month just to be near a kitchen. Street merchants did a rushing business in cameras, pistols, binoculars, diamonds and luxury goods.

August 1 brought new money—florins worth nearly 12 to the U. S. dollar—and the long-promised "stabilization," with higher prices and wages and strict anti-black market laws. It changed the American dollar from king to court jester.

Restaurant prices jumped first. A formal dinner for two—cocktails, steak, vegetables, salad, wine, dessert and coffee—skyrocketed from $4 to $20. Bar drinks from 20 cents to $1.50, beer from 15 cents to $1 a bottle, sidewalk cafe coffee from five cents to 20 cents.

An American major, his wife and daughter, got a cleaning and pressing bill for $329. Americans spoke about this in shocked tones. The major could not even talk.

Word got about that six or seven state department girls, who live in a large house on the once-fashionable Stafania Ut. had received an electricity bill totaling $600 for one month. A captain was charged $19 for 100 envelopes and 150 sheets of paper.

Another officer's wife paid $9 to have her hair washed. A high officer who accompanied the American train returning $32,000,000 in gold to Hungary was jarred to the pinfeathers of his insignia after a relatively dull evening in a Budapest night club when he was handed a bill for $75.

Hot spots raised the price of cognac from 75 cents to $38 a bottle. Landlords asked $150 to $200 a month for villas. Cooks and maids demanded $20 and $25 a week. GI's with accumulated overseas time started asking for the next available plane out.

There was some talk of a new diplomatic exchange rate—something between 20 and 40 florins to $1—for Americans in Budapest, but those who claim to have information say that it is unlikely at present. They said that there is apprehension that Russians would use such a rate as propaganda against the west.

An American family of three in Budapest now must meet these average basic costs per month: food about $200, rent $100 to $150; electricity $75 to $100, telephone $30 installation fee and $30 minimum monthly charge, cleaning and pressing about $200, laundry $100, two servants $100 to $140. If husband and wife went to a night spot once a month that would be about $50. Two movies (1942 vintage) a month would be $9 at $1.50 per person, dinner out twice a month would be about $60. At most that is more than $1,000 a month, even without night spots, servants, movies and dinners, it is still more than $700.

GARBAGE FEES FALL $24,000 SHORT OF COST

$19,000 of Total Represents Cost of New Trucks, Subsidy For Labor.

Mansfield's garbage-rubbish collection department is already $24,000 in the red this year, a recapitulation of department costs showed today.

The re-cap came as Mayor Roy W. Vaughn prepared to send to councilmen copies of the city's 26-year-old refuse collection ordinance.

So far this year, figures in City Auditor Paul Kelley's office show, the refuse collection department has received $24,000 in subsidies from the general fund.

Of this amount, $19,000 was voted by council Tuesday to pay for labor costs and for the purchase of new trucks. A $5,000 subsidy was voted in February for repairs to the garbage incinerator.

Meanwhile, councilmen began their second day of quizzing residents of their wards concerning the proposed boost of the city's $7.20-a-year garbage-rubbish collection fee. Vaughn has recommended the increase.

Councilmen will meet next Tuesday to decide whether the fee shall be boosted and whether other changes shall be made in the collection ordinance.

NEW BUILDING UP TO $146,350

Permits Issued in August For 15 New Houses.

Permits for the construction of 21 new buildings in Mansfield, 15 of them houses, were issued in August for a total building valuation during the month of $146,350.

In addition, permits for 25 remodeling projects totaling $19,100 were granted.

The 13 one-family homes and two double houses for which permits were issued have a total valuation of $94,900. Prices of homes ranged from $2,000 to $10,000.

Largest non-housing project authorized during the month was the $50,000 Swan Cleaners building, Park avenue west. Most of the other non-housing permits were for garages.

In July, permits for 74 new buildings were issued, 52 of them being for $8,000 pre-fabricated houses. Of the balance, 10 were for conventional homes to bring the home valuation total that month up to $483,150.

Twelve commercial structures were authorized in July as well as 11 remodeling projects to boost total building and remodeling to $489,755.

Yesterday, a permit for the construction of a $3,500 pre-fabricated building was issued to the Ohio Shale Face Brick company, Olivesburg road. It will be located at 366 Wheatrow avenue.

A permit for the construction of a $3,000 storage room was issued to D. L. Lowrey, 500 Edgewood road. It is to be located at 1101 Park avenue west.

Cloyd Miller Stricken at 70

Funeral services for Cloyd Miller, 70, former resident of Shelby who has lived in Mansfield for the past 20 years, will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at the Barkdull funeral home, Shelby.

Ill for a few days, Mr. Miller died at the Mansfield General hospital Wednesday at 10:30 p. m.

He is survived by two brothers, Harry and Harlan, both of Shelby, and one nephew.

Rev. D. B. Young, pastor of the Shelby Lutheran church, will officiate, with burial in the Oakland cemetery in Shelby.

Friends may call at the Barkdull funeral home after Friday noon.

Mrs. Stella Brown Stricken In Lorain

Mrs. Stella M. Brown, 71, of 331 West Third street, widow of Freeman Brown, died Wednesday at the home of her son, Harold C. Simon, in Lorain. She had been in Lorain about five weeks.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Mowery funeral home in West Salem. Burial will be in West Salem.

Surviving are two sons, Harold C. Simon of Lorain and Claude Simon of Los Angeles, and two brothers, Grant Albert of Toledo and Claude Albert of 331 West Third street, Mansfield.

Set Up New Army Enlistment Period

Effective at once, all men enlisting or re-enlisting in the regular navy must do so for a minority period (from acceptable minority age, 17, to 21 years of age) or for a four or six-year period, Mansfield Recruiter John Daley said today.

Daley added that among other changes in regulations was one allowing former WAVES to enlist in the regular navy now.

Reported enlisted today was Richard A. Ross of Plymouth who has signed as an apprentice seaman to be trained as an electronic technician's mate.

Friday-the-13th Eviction Faced by Family of Nine

Friday the 13th is going to be a mighty unlucky day for Lawrence Burge and family, 230 East Second street. That is, unless someone steps in to help them.

Burge, an employe of the Westinghouse Electric corporation, has nine children. One, the eldest boy, is in China, a G. I. He's to be home in about a month.

But unless the Burge family's luck changes, that G. I. will come home to no home. Burge, his wife, Mildred, and their eight homebound children have been ordered to vacate by the 13th.

Someone has bought the house they've been renting. Mrs. Burge has been tramping the streets of Mansfield, looking for a new place to rent. But—no luck

Jobs Open at Shelby Depot

Applications will be received by the local board of U. S. Civil service Examiners at the Shelby air depot until Sept. 25 for making probational (permanent) appointments to 22 different types of positions with pay rates ranging from 72 cents to $1.09 per hour.

Included among the positions are those of packer, fuel station attendant, auto equipment inspector, and gasoline and electric auto equipment repairer foreman.

Applications will be received until Oct. 8 for 12 other types of positions with pay rates ranging from 78 cents to $1.03 per hour and for chauffeur at $1,822 per year.

Included among these are tug and light truck operator, truck driver, (medium and heavy duty), crane operator, and shovel operator.

What's more, if the Burge's have no place to go by the 13th some of the youngest children may have to be placed in the children's home until a place is found.

If you can help, you'll find them at their East Second street home, staring at that big, red circle around Friday the 13th.

FIRE PREVENTION OBSERVANCE SET

W. G. Schultz to Head City Program Next Month.

Tentative plans were made last night for the second large-scale Fire Prevention Week in the city, at a meeting of the publicity committee on the week, held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

W. G. Schultz was renamed general chairman of the fire prevention week, which will be held from Oct. 6 to 12, inclusive. Schultz served in the same capacity in Mansfield's initial observance last fall.

Lowell Bourns, chairman of the publicity group, said today that the observance will reach into industry, schools, churches, retail stores and private homes. Bourns added that the program and chairmen of the sub-committees will be announced sometime this week.

The observance here will be in connection with the national prevention week, which falls on the anniversary of the Chicago fire, Oct. 9 1871.

MOTORISTS PAY $100 IN FINES

6 Drivers Penalized $10 Each For Speeding.

Twelve persons were fined a total of $100 and costs yesterday in traffic court. Six were motorists fined $10 and costs each on speeding charges.

Driver's license of William R. Messer, 338 Wayne street, was suspended for 60 days and he was fined $10 and costs on a charge of unsafe operation of a motor vehicle.

Fined on speeding charges were Andred A. Jackson, Marion; Mary G. Jackson, Marion; Lowell C. Kinn, Bucyrus; Jonathan Milum, 212 Rhein street; J. Craig Grover, Ashland, and Joe Erwin, 117 Park avenue west.

Others fined were Albert D. O'Neil, 258 South Diamond street, improper lights, $5 and costs; Emerson Williams, 270 North Main streets, failure to have an operator's license, $5 and costs; Joseph J. Siwek, 20 Jefferson avenue, crossing a yellow line, $10 and costs; Clifton Moore, 221 North Diamond street, failure to have an operator's license, $5 and costs, and Paul Gemzer, 629 East Longview avenue, inadequate muffler, $5 and costs.

Erwin pleaded innocent to a charge of failing to have an operator's license, and hearing was continued until tomorrow.

BODY REMOVED

Train Victim to Be Buried in Lynchburg.

Services will be held at Lynchburg, O., for Emmett E. Workman, killed by an Erie railroad engine near GBU park Tuesday night.

An ambulance from the Davies funeral home in Lynchburg removed Workman's body from the Jones funeral home to the Highland county village yesterday, after authorities had located an aunt there. Papers in the man's pockets led to his identification.

Workman was killed as he was sitting on the track with his head on his knees apparently sleeping, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson reported.

The engineer said he did not see the man in the dusk until the locomotive was almost upon him.

'Sadistic' Acts Linked to Boy, 14

A 14-year-old boy, whom Juvenile Judge S. H. Cramer said appears to have a "sadistic nature", was in the juvenile detention home today. He was given preliminary hearing yesterday on a charge of shooting the coon dog valued at $175 by its owner, Aaron Wellington, Harding road.

Although the charge of delinquency against the boy included only the shooting, investigators found evidence linking the boy to such other sadistic acts as stabbing neighbor's pigs, trying to induce a small child to stick his hand in a steel trap, and setting his vicious German police dog on other dogs.

Judge Cramer said the boy's case has been continued pending further investigation into his background.

1 TREES DIE—

There will be only 84 trees in Central park after today. Of the total of 88 trees, four hard maples were being removed by city parks workmen because of a disease that has hit the trees. Parks Supt. Frank Burton says he fears that others will also be hit by the blight which slowly kills the maples from the top down. Some 15 maples have already been removed from the various parks this year because of the disease, Burton reported.

"SHOE' SHOTS, SURE SHOTS—

The "shots" rang out—but they were caused by horse shoes, not guns. A woman called police yesterday afternoon to report excitedly that there was "some shooting going on in John Todd park." Police hurriedly sought out the "shooters." It was a group of men pitching horse shoes, officers said. The "shots" were evidently surely-fired ringers, or the clumping of shoes as they missed the stakes.

HE MISSED IT—

David Carter of Lexington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter, was a disappointed six-year-old Tuesday morning, when he got up to find himself red with an attack of old-fashioned measles. It was to have been David's first day at school and in anticipation he had placed his clothes on the chair beside his bed and had put his hooks at a handy spot, when he retired Monday night. Now David is quarantined at home, bewailing the fact that he is missing all the fun of that first day at school.

HELD OVER—

That Mansfield is a good show town is revealed by the fact that the Madge Kinsey players, who are currently packing their tent theater seven nights a week, are holding the show over for a fifth week. Strangely enough, it is by popular demand for a favorite of grandpa's day which is causing them to stay an extra week in Mansfield. In response to hundreds who have asked for it, the Kinseys will revive the classic, "Ten Nights In A Barroom," next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights.

Central Methodist church Sunday school will hold a corn roast and picnic tomorrow on the P. C. Davis farm on the Lexington-Springmill road. Young people in charge of the affair will meet at 5:30 p. m. at the church. Transportation will be provided.

Serving on the various committees for the event are Robert Trall: food; Ruth Schaaf, songs; William Bargahiser, games, and Lionel McCracken, fire building.

FIGURES SHOW INCREASE OF 29 OVER 1945

More Attend Senior High, But John Simpson, Appleseed Totals Drop.

Mansfield's public school enrollment mounted to 6,203 elementary and high school pupils today as final reports were made to the superintendent's office.

Today's enrollment represents an increase of 21 pupils over the enrollment figure of 6,182 reported on the opening day of school yesterday. It's an increase of 29 over the opening day enrollment last year.

Only one teaching position today remained to be filled with a permanent instructor. This is the vocational mathematics position at Mansfield Senior high school, temporarily taken over by Irvin Brune, who will return to Ohio State university this late fall for graduate work.

There, however, was an indication that the city schools might be hit by a serious substitute teacher shortage in the event of another epidemic of illness like that last year's.

Miss Ruth Malone, secretary in the superintendent's office, said that the list of available substitute teachers for the public schools was "low" and that it "might be bad" if calls for the temporary instructors became heavy. She added that the demand was "very light" during the first two months of the school year.

* * *

Compare Figures.

Enrollment figures in the city's high and elementary schools are:

Senior high school—1,173 pupils, 47 up over last year; John Simpson junior high school—832, 47 decrease; Johnny Appleseed junior high school—640, four decrease; Bowman school—766, 10 decrease; Bushnell school — 190, nine decrease; Brinkerhoff school —293, 11 increase; Carpenter school—249, two decrease.

Hedges school—686, 32 increase; Newman school—332, five increase; Prospect school — 235, two increase; West Fifth school —277, one increase; Western Avenue school — 359, nine increase; Woodland school — 194, seven increase.

The Deaf School at Carpenter school counted 18 children enrolled today, with the Sight Saving and Sunshine schools at West Fifth school having 11 and eight pupils, respectively.

FETE RESIDENTS OF COUNTY HOME

County Granges to Hold Their Annual Picnic Sunday.

Residents of the Richland county home will have a gala day Sunday with home fried chicken, cake and all the other delicacies that go into a farm family's picnic basket when approximately 250 county Grangers gather at the home for their fifth annual outing.

Sponsored by the Richland county Pomona Grange and 13 of the active subordinate Granges in the county, the picnic will begin at 12 noon. The picnickers will spread their food and eat cafeteria style after the home residents have been served.

Following the dinner each of the subordinate Granges, under the direction of their lecturers, will present an entertainment for the residents.

Several pastors from the rural areas of the county will be on hand to give short talks.

The picnic is under the direction of Harry Stroup as Pomona master.

CITE 7 DRIVERS

Motorists Ordered to Court on Speeding Charges.

City police and state highway patrolmen booked seven drivers on speeding charges yesterday afternoon and last night. Two of them were juveniles.

Ordered to appear in court Saturday were Robert R. Trafzer, 241 East Second street; Lester G. Garber, Mansfield, R. D. 6, and Richard L. Baker, 475 Fifth avenue, a juvenile who was ordered to juvenile court.

Paul A. Gremling, 163 South Mulberry street, another juvenile, was ordered to court this afternoon. Eugene M. Sullivan, of Cleveland, and Hyman Rosenthal, of Columbus, were ordered to appear Sept. 12. Both were released on $25 bond. John Kopchok, 756 Bowman street, charged with unsafe operation, was cited to appear Saturday.

15 Bowling Leagues Set to Open Season Next Week

Hal Clawson

Mansfield's fistic featherweight star—Paul Carbetta—isn't going to take any chances on meeting an overweight opponent again.

Carbetta's only two setbacks in the pro ring have been dished out by Dick "Teddy" Lewis—the hard punching Dayton lad. The last one was because Paul entered the ring much too light to stay on even terms with Lewis.

That was on Pomoters Rex Reese and Sam Miller's last outdoor show here the night of Aug. 12.

Carbetta had to give away between seven and eight pounds to Lewis. Giving away that much weight means something in the lighter boxing classes.

So when the local puncher signed the contract for his scrap here next Wednesday night in the Armory ring, the stipulation agreed on is that Lewis cannot enter the ring at more than 128 pounds.

Carbetta believes that he can tip the scales at around 123 or 124 pounds.

"I've been gaining back most of the weight I lost previous to my last fight with Lewis," Paul stated yesterday. "I am in excellent shape for the fight although at the present I have a slight head cold."

To say that Paul will be seeking revenge against Lewis is putting it mildly. He's out to whip him by the kayo route.

In 1943 Lewis scored a six-round decision over Paul in Chicago. And then four weeks ago the Dayton lad floored Paul several times in gaining a 10-round decision.

With Carbetta back on the card next week's show will likely rate as one of the best pro shows ever staged here. Reese has made every effort to keep giving the fight fans here bigger and better cards.

Vansky Meets Martinelli

Jack Vansky, who has been unsuccessful in getting a shot at Johnny Demchuk's junior heavyweight crown, hopes to spoil some one elses chance.

The popular grappler faces Angelo Martinelli in the main go here tonight on the wrestling card at the Armory's indoor arena.

"It looks like Martinelli is going to be given a shot at Demchuk," Vansky told Promoter Earl Myers when he signed for tonight's battle, "but I'll show him that he doesn't deserve it."

They go for two out of three falls with a one hour time limit.

In the curtain raiser at 8 30, Jim Bradley, a newcomer to the local scene, faces Oregon McDonald in a two out of three fall scrap with a one hour time limit.

Joe Louis Opens N. Y. Restaurant

NEW YORK — (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis opened his new restaurant here last night with a party for the press and the sporting world but he neglected to invite a man who might have been able to give him a few pointers.

The fellow who could have contributed some helpful hints had he been around is Tami Mauriello, the Bronx belter who challenges Louis for his title in Yankee Stadium Sept. 18.

Mauriello might not be able to teach Louis anything about boxing, but he's had plenty of experience in serving the public. He has operated a tavern in the Bronx for years.

VFW NINE TO PLAY

Possum Run Golf Title Up Sunday

Carl Kushin Fires 144 In Qualifier.

Dues to his fine five-under par 139 in the club qualifier, Carl Kushin will be odds-on-favorite to capture the Possum Run golf club championship Sunday.

One of the hottest swingers playing the courses right now, Kushin was one of 12 golfers who got in under the wire for the 36-hole finals.

Other qualifiers for the 36-hole medal play over the rolling south-side links were Ted Etzel, Grant Hanawalt, with 143's; John Seifert, 147; Carl Kurick, 149; Sid Matthias, 150; John Carr, 153; Red Keck, Arnold Adams, Rolly Rachel, Robert Dillon and Paul Jesson, all with 154's.

Pro-Manager Irish McGee announced today that the men will play in three foursomes with the first quartet teeing off at 9 o'clock for the 18 holes of morning play.

They'll start the second 18 holes in the afternoon leaving the tee at 2 o'clock.

Four women will play Sunday afternoon over the 18-hole route for the club's ladies' crown.

In this foursome that will tee off at 1:15 are Mrs. Ann Rosenburg, Mrs. Jeanette Eichin, Mrs. Carolyn Seifert and Mrs. Mickey Ball.

Mrs. Rosenberg was the low qualifier with an 85 followed by Mrs. Eichin with an 86. Mrs. Seifert fired a 91 and Mrs. Ball a 93 in the qualifying rounds.

Sunday's play to decide a club champion will be the first since 1941.

McGee announced the matches will be open to the public.

Hilborn's 598 High In 'A' Pin League

Art Hilborn of Bissmans fired a 221 game and a 598 series to make top honors in the City A bowling league's opening rolling of the 1946-47 season last night at the Colony lanes.

Don Hipp, Erin Tavern leadoff man, banged out a 220 game, for next high.

Bissmans captured team honors firing upsetting 959 maples for the top game and then totaled 2748 for the top series total.

C-N Gridders Working Out

Being without a home field isn't stopping the City News semi-pro football team from working out

Coaches Vern Heiser and Al Schwaner have been sending the candidates through stiff drills every night at Tappan field in preparation for the season's opener the latter part of this month

Any former high school or college players in this area who would still like to join the team can do so by reporting to the practice sessions which start at 6 o clock

Business Manager Fred Rizzo is lining up a formidable schedule for the News eleven—but all the games are on the road.

The two local fields—Stadium field and Madison—are unavailable for Sunday afternoon games

Buckeyes Work on Punting; Five Players Quit Squad

COLUMBUS — (AP) — With about one-third of their pre-opener practice behind them, Ohio State university's 1946 crop of football candidates today included 66 varsity and 44 junior varsity players—less than half the number of men who reported 10 days ago.

Contact work has been held to a minimum in these early sessions, and "no really serious injuries in the top group of players" have resulted, Coach Paul Bixler reported.

This week the Bucks have been adding four plays a day to their repertoire—and two running and two pass plays were to be introduced today, all from the single wing formation.

* * *

Bixler eyed his punters closely yesterday, and today expected to give them their first test against a charging defensive line. Fred "Curly" Morrison, Columbus end, has been getting the longest boots—some 65 and 70 yard ones—but he lacks the consistency of Massillon's Tommy James. George Spencer of Bexley, Tom Phillips of Berea and several of the third and fourth string backs.

Five players left the squad yesterday. Four headed for Oxford O., to try for Sid Gillman's Miami Redskin squad, it was reported

They were end Dick Shannon of Akron, halfback Bob Demmel of Fremont, and guard George Mattey and halfback Vic Drobnic, both of Cleveland The fifth player, Ed Wambold of Perrysburg, decided that his 185 pounds wasn't enough at fullback where he played third string last year.

Annual Tyger Club Clinic Tonight

Mansfield high's grid machine, churning along in high spirits as it preps for the season's opener against Marion Harding a week from Friday night, will put on its first public appearance tonight at 8 o'clock.

Coach Paul Snyder will have his Tygers out under the lights for the annual football clinic sponsored by the Tyger club—the school's big booster organization.

Several hundred fans are expected to be in the stands to get a glimpse of what the 1946 eleven has to offer.

During the two and one-half weeks of daily practices a handful of the "downtown quarterbacks" have found their way to the practice field but the majority of the fans still haven't had a glimpse of the 1946 outfit.

While unveiling the squad, Coach Snyder and his aides will send them through various plays while the P. A. announcer explains to the fans just what each player must do to make the play function

The Tygers will then put on a short scrimmage of about 20 minutes.

Reserve Coach Fred Staub will have his sophomore team on hand to also give forth with a short scrimmage session.

Herb Smith, president of the Tyger club, will serve as master of ceremonies for the clinic and will introduce various school officials.

Preceding the performance of the Tygers, Coach Snyder will introduce each player and tell what position he will play.

Mansfield's marching band will be on hand to entertain the fans but will not do any marching. "They still need a little more practice," Director J. Merton Holcomb stated today.

Fire at Three New Records In Rifle Meet

CAMP PERRY, O. —(AP)— There were three new records to shoot at today as marksmen returned to the grassy flats of Camp Perry for the third day of competition in the national rifle and pistol championships, revived this year after a wartime lapse.

Two of the new marks were set yesterday in the 40-shot, 100-yard scope sight match. S. C. Burkhalter of Salem, O., and Ruth E. Davis of Los Angeles, Calif., fired perfect 400s placing 32 of their shots in the small center X ring of their targets.

Burkhalter's performance bettered the previous men's record of 400, with 80 X's set in 1937 by T. P. Samsoe of Perth Emboy, N. J. Miss Davis, score set a new record in the event for women.

The other new record was shared by three police officers firing in the .22 caliber pistol event. Lt. Quentin Brooks of Paul's Valles, Okla. Harold Voebel of New York and defending champion Harry Reeves of Detroit each scored 192 out of a possible 200 to top more than 300 other contestants. This event consists of 20 shots slow fire at 50 yards.

Leading the field at the three-quarter mark in the national small bore rifle championship was William P. Schweitzer, 48, millionaire sportsman from Hillside, N. J. He scored 2,391 out of a possible 2,400 in six of eight events.

In second place was Garrett W. Moore of Washington, Pa., with 2,390, while Fred Kuhn of Stratford, Conn., slipped to third with an aggregate of 2,388.

Win Second Round Title

SHELBY—The Eagles won the second half championship of the Shelby softball league by defeating the CIO-Steelworkers' union 13 to 2, Wednesday night on the waterworks diamond.

It was the eighth win out of nine games for the Eagles and the 10th straight loss for the CIO.

The Eagles took a 1 to 0 lead in the second inning on a home run hit by Russell Hazelwood. Hazelwood knocked out a second home run in the third inning. Other homers were hit by Deeid Griffeth and Kenny Seitz for the Eagles, who were never pushed by the CIO.

The championship of the league will be at stake in the play off series between the Eagles and the Shelby Salesbook company, first half winner. The first game may be played Friday night or Monday, according to the schedule to be arranged by the two managers of the winning teams, "Buss" Bliss of the Eagles and W. Harrer of the Salesbook.

In addition to the two out of three game playoff an all-star team will be picked by the managers from the losing teams to meet the champion next week in the game that will close the season. A meeting of the managers will be called early next week to select the all-star team.

WHEN THE PIGSKIN TEAMS come in off the field for their between-halves coaching, they'll have movies of the plays they've just finished to study. And it's all because Jeff Cravath, Trojan coach, has discovered that the familiarly known wartime photo "Maisie" machines can be adapted to the gridiron After the movies are shot on the field, top, a robot-type processing machine geared to speed, prepares the film for showing in record time. The machine, lower photo, has been purchased by the University of Southern California, and is expected to revolutionize football strategy. (International)

Red Munger May Turn Out to Be Pennant Insurance for Cards

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

George (Red) Munger may prove the deciding factor in the Redbirds' battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league pennant.

Munger last night celebrated his second week with the Cards since his discharge from the army by pitching the Redbirds to an 8-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs for his first triumph of the year.

The victory enabled the Cards to preserve their two-game lead over the second place Dodgers who defeated the Braves in Boston, 3-1.

In a battle between lefthanders, Brooklyn's Joe Hatten had the better of Boston's Warren Spahn although the Braves outhit the Dodgers eight to six. Three bases on balls proved Spahn's undoing as all figured in Brooklyn's scoring.

* * *

The Boston Red Sox moved to within five games of clinching the American league pennant, defeating the Washington Senators 4-2 in the Capital City while the Athletics were shading the New York Yankees 4-3 in Philadelphia. The Sox now lead the runner-up Yankees by 16½ games.

Phil Marchildon gained his 12th victory for the A's as Pete Suder drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh with a single to left. Joe DiMaggio's 23rd home run went to waste for the Yankees.

Chet Laabs drove in all St. Louis' runs with two home runs and a single as the Browns took the measure of the White Sox in Chicago, 5-1.

Bucky Walters and Joe Beggs co-operated to pitch the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in Cincinnati

Although they collected only six hits, the Philadelphia Phils made five count for extra bases, including two home runs by Andy Seminick and one by Del Ennis, to down the New York Giants 6-5 at the Polo Grounds.

In the day's only daylight game, Hal Newhouser hung up his 24th pitching win as the Detroit Tigers whipped the Cleveland Indians 4-1.

Play Benefit Game Sunday

Even though the local baseball season is all but put away in moth balls for another six or seven months, two local teams will have another fling here Sunday afternoon.

And it will be for a good cause.

A benefit game for Elaine Mash will be played at Liberty park between the American Legion junior club and the Post 72 nine.

Miss Mash suffered a fractured jaw when a foul ball hit her several weeks ago when she was watching the junior nine play the Fifth District Legion all-stars. The game was the highlight of the district convention.

Dewey Durant, coach of the Legion team, has arranged the game and announced this morning that all money raised will be turned over to Miss Mash to help pay hospital and doctor expenses.

CARDIFF, Wales — (AP) — Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J, will head for home tomorrow, still wearing that half of the world lightweight crown which is recognized by the National Boxing association.

Williams defended his title successfully here last night by knocking out Ronnie James of Wales, British Empire champion at 2:41 of the ninth round in a scheduled 15-round bout.

The champion, who weighed 134¾ pounds to 134¼ for his opponent, floored James six times before putting him away for keeps.

Feller Goes After 23rd Win Today

DETROIT—(AP)—Beaten in five of his last six starts, fireballer Bob Feller went after his 3rd victory today as the Cleveland Indians met the Detroit Tigers in the second match of their three-game series.

Fred Hutchinson was given the mound assignment for the Tigers, who downed the tribe 4 to 1 in the opening game yesterday as Hal Newhouser racked up his 24th victory of the season.

The Indians' lone run came in the initial frame when Felix Mackiewicz walked and later scored on Don Ross' single, Three successive hits after two were out tied up the count in Detroit's half of the inning, however, and the Tigers went ahead in the sixth, 2 to 1, when Dick Wakefield hoisted his eighth homer for the season.

Five more hits added two additional runs for Detroit in the eighth when Steve Gromek was driven from the mound. It was a bitter ending for the Cleveland hurler who was honored before the game by friends from his native Hamtramck, Mich., and presented with certificates for four rooms of furniture.

Newhouser, who has lost only six games this year, limited the tribe to six hits. Gromek was touched for 11, while Allie Reynolds, who succeeded him, gave up two blows.

Colony Lanes In Top Shape For Long Grind

Hilborn Says Saturdays, Sundays To Be Reserved For Open Pin-Spilling.

By HAL CLAWSON

Everything thus far points to one of the biggest bowling seasons ever experienced in Mansfield.

That's the way Art Hilborn, owner and manager of the Colony lanes, sees the coming season which officially got under way this week.

The 24-lane plant will be jammed with leagues five nights a week with shifts starting at 6:30 and 8:30.

Taking into consideration the bowlers who like to take to the lanes only on Saturdays and Sundays, Hilborn has revealed that during the afternoon and evenings of those two day the alleys will be reserved for open bowling. An eight-team women's loop on Saturday will be the only exception.

A face-lifting job has been performed on the alleys. All have been sanded and refinished for the 33-week long blasting of the timbers.

"Bowlers are finding the alleys in better condition than they've seen them in a number of years," Hilborn stated yesterday.

Most of the teams will be rolling again this year under the colors of their 1945-46 sponsor.

Here's the way the nightly league schedule and the number of teams in each schedule loop will look once the season gets fully underway:

Monday — Women's Variety league, 12; Gorman-Rupp, 6; Mansfield Tire girls, 6; Club league, 12.

Tuesday—Mansfield Tire league, 24; Commercial C league, 12.

Wednesday—City A league, 12; Victory league, 12; Dominion Electric, 6.

Thursday — Commercial B league, 12; Women's A league, 12.

Friday—Women's B league, 12; Moose league, 24; Barnes and Pryor league, 12.

Saturday—Moose Women, 8.

Also slated to start the first week in October is the Elks league of 12 teams with the possibility that a Westinghouse league may be organized.

The 24-team Mansfield Tire loop was the first to open the pin-busting season here Tuesday night.

Last night the fast City A league got underway. Some of the keglers are of the opinion that the "A" boys are really going to upset the sticks this season and some high averages will be chalked up. It definitely will be just about the fastest league in town.

* * *

Slated for action in the 12-team Commercial B league are the following quintets: Casto's Market, Leiderkranz club, East Side Nite club, Orange Street cafe, Oak Park tavern, Ingram-Martin, Yuncker Brothers, Mansfield Rug and Linoleum, Cresent cafe, Ringside Nite club, Mansfield Printing and Rogers Jewelers.

This loop starts firing tonight.

Rams' Booster Club Elects New Officers

Madison high football fans pledged their full support to Coach Jeff DeHaven and his Rams Tuesday night at the school when the Boosters' club held its first meeting of the new year.

Curt Glenn was elected the club's new president for the year with LaVern Thrush being chosen vice president and Vill Erdenberger, secretary-treasurer.

The club voted to purchase two blocking dummies for the squad. Coach DeHaven told the members that the dummies were needed badly.

One year memberships were granted to all boys who graduated from Madison high last year.

Outfitting the four schools in the Madison school district is being planned by the Boosters' club but to date the equipment has not been received.

The schools are Junior Heights, Lincoln Heights, East Mansfield and Woodville.

A wiener roast for the club members and the Rams football team is set for next Tuesday evening.

The Madison Booster club meets the second Tuesday of every month at the high school. All fans in the Madison district are invited to join the organization and help boost the Rams.

BROWNS HOLD FIRST CLEVELAND WORKOUT

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The Cleveland Browns planned to work behind closed gates in the stadium today in preparation for their opening game of the All-America conference season tomorrow night with the Miami Seahawks.

The Miami club was expected to arrive in town late today for the scrap Browns officials said might draw a record pro football crowd here of 50,000.

Kaplanoff to Coach Galion Semi-Pro 11

GALION — Carl Kaplanoff of Bucyrus, star Ohio State tackle and co-captain in 1938, will coach the newly organized semi-pro Vets' Cubs football team of Galion.

This announcement was made after a warm-up practice at Heise park athletic field, Tuesday night, when 24 athletes turned out.

Among the players out for the Tuesday night practice were Bob Frye, a left-handed passer from Crestline high and Ohio State, and Lou Cellini, who was an All-Ohio guard at Heidelberg. Both boys are now assistant coaches at Crestline high school.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Scrambling for Right Half Post

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—There's a merry scramble going on for the all-important right halfback spot at the University of Michigan this fall and it's practically an "all-service" scramble.

Ralph Chubb, 190 pound ex-Navy candidate from Ann Arbor, is seeking to regain the starting spot he earned in 1944 after the Marines transferred Bob Nussbaumer from Michigan. And ex-Marine Paul White, 1943 captain, Hank Fonde, 162 pound scatback from last year's team and Alan Traugott, newcomer and ex-GI from Indianapolis, all believe they'll have something to say about things.

Children Should Be Seen, Heard

LINCOLN, Neb. —(INS)— Despite the old adage, children should be heard if parents want them to grow up with normal speech habits.

Miss Lucille Cypreansen, of the Speech Department, University of Nebraska, gives this advice: "Many a child's speech is deficient because parents either try to overstimulate the child in a desire to make him precocious, or understimulate him by anticipating every whim and preventing him from asking for the things he wants.

Tests Will Weed Out State Workers

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Plans were announced today for the elimination of provisional employes of the state civil service system by the scheduling of examinations to establish permanent status for those who can meet the grade.

Of about 22,000 civil service workers in Ohio, some 10,000 are provisional employes. This situation arose because no new exams have been given since 1941, with so many employes in the armed forces It is estimated that it will take two years completely to weed out all provisional employes.

AN Englishman, a Welshman and a Scot were having drinks together. There were three flies buzzing around the room, and one happened to light in each drink.

The Englishman called for a teaspoon and removed his fly with an expression of disgust. The Welshman put his hand in and with his thumb and forefinger flipped his fly clear across the room. The Scot carefully lifted his fly and wrung it out.

It was reported that when Mrs. Pat Campbell visited a notorious bore she was asked to write something in the guest book. She wrote, "Quoth the raven," signed her name, and departed.

Gottfried, of the Madison Avenue Gottfrieds, turned pale when his brother walked into the store. "What's happened?" he gasped. "Don't be frightened," said his brother. "I just fell asleep in the chair and Grecco, the barber, cut my hair a little too close." "Hallelujah," said Gottfried with a sigh of relief. "I thought the Indians were on the warpath again."

LITTLE WIGGLENOSE REMEMBERS

And longest life, who don't forget.
They little have for vain regret,
—Peter Rabbit.

Every one forgets now and then, but no one can afford to let forgetting become a habit. This is true of every one, but especially true of the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. None of them ever has the habit for long because he simply doesn't live long. Forgetting and long life never go together among the little folks in fur and feathers.

Peter Rabbit's small grandson, Little Wobblenose, sat all alone in a bramble-tangle far back in the Old Pasture. A few minutes before he had had company. A young Grouse had crept in there for the very same reason that he was there himself—safety. Then Mother Grouse had come that way clucking for him and as fast as his legs could take him young Grouse had hurried to join her after which they had whirred away together on stout wings.

"I suppose wings make a difference," said the little Rabbit aloud as he watched them out of sight flying toward the Green Forest.

"It certainly does, my little Rabbit. It certainly does," said a smooth voice. There, just outside the bramble-tangle, was the handsomest person Little Wobblenose ever had seen. His eyes opened very wide with surprise and admiration. He hadn't supposed that there was any one in the Great World so handsome as this smooth-tongued stranger.

Compared with the little Rabbit he was a giant, though compared with Light Foot the Deer or Buster Bear he was small. He wore a handsome red coat and white waistcoat. His feet and legs were black. So were his sharp-pointed ears. His tail—well, when Little Wobblenose saw that tail he forgot everything else for a moment. He hadn't dreamed that there could be such a tail. It was long and big around, for the hair of it was long and made it that way. It was red like the strangers coat until toward the end it became black and the tip was white.

The stranger grinned and the little Rabbit wished he hadn't. That grin showed a lot of sharp white teeth. Somehow they made him feel uncomfortable.

"I don't think I have seen you before. There has been no one in this old bramble-tangle for a long time. It is good to see someone living here. You are living here, aren't you?" said the smooth pleasant voice.

"Yes," replied Little Wobblenose. "I've decided to live here."

"Good!" said the handsome stranger. "I'm fond of Little Rabbits. I love to see them around." he added somewhat hastily, but the little Rabbit didn't notice, and the stranger went on smoothly.

"Good!" said the handsome stranger, "I'm fond of little Rabbits."

"The Old Pasture is a wonderful place. I think you will like it when you become acquainted with it. I've lived here a long time and know it well. I'll be happy to take you around." The tip of his tongue licked his lips but the little Rabbit didn't notice.

"Thank you," said Little Wobblenose. "That is very kind of you."

"Don't mention it. It will be a pleasure. In fact I can think of nothing that would give me greater pleasure," replied the handsome stranger pleasantly. "I happen to know of a nice patch of the sweetest clover you've ever tasted. It is not far from here. Even if you are not hungry just now you should know about it and just how to get to it when you are hungry."

Mention of the sweet clover reminded the little Rabbit that he was hungry and that there was neither clover nor grass in that bramble-tangle It certainly was nice of this stranger to think that he might be hungry and to offer to take him to that clover. It was wonderful to find such a handsome, pleasant, friendly neighbor. He wondered who he was. Still wondering Little Wobblenose made a couple of hops to join the stranger outside the bramble-tangle. Suddenly he remembered something. He remembered to be afraid. Yes, sir, he suddenly remembered to be afraid. Had he not told the young Grouse that that was what he was going to do, be afraid of every one until he was sure there was no reason to be afraid? There could be nothing to fear from such a handsome pleasant, friendly person. Of course not. He looked up and the nice stranger grinned again. It was intended for a friendly grin but again the sight of all those sharp teeth gave Little Wobblenose an uncomfortable feeling.

"I'm not hungry just now," said he.

They'll keep singing its praises for years

Every so often it happens.

A car comes along that rings so many bells on so many counts that folks remember it fondly and talk about it for years thereafter.

You're looking at one of those "vintage-year" Buicks now.

Right from the start, it clicked with the stand-out, hint-of-the-future freshness of its styling.

It brought wide, appreciative grins with the smooth way its Fireball straight-eight engine delivers its eager surge of power.

It registered with the steady stride of two lively tons of roadweight, cradled on tireless coil springs all around that turn the roughest road into a pleasure cruise.

Then as people began to discover the blissfully easy way this dream boat handles – as the miles piled up and owners found their cars getting actually better – word started to go round: "That '46 Buick – there's an automobile!"

They'll be saying that for many a long year.

And while we're doing everything in our power to get you yours soon-as-possible, you'll find that when you get it is a secondary matter.

For the man who gets a '46 Buick has really got something – something certain to be a high spot in his car-owning history.

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR on the air twice weekly

BRADLEY ASKS VFW TO HELP NIP CHISELERS

General Declares Vets Must Aid to Prevent Bill of Rights Grab Bag.

BOSTON — (U.P.) — Gen. Omar Bradley, administrator of veterans' affairs, asked the Veterans of Foreign Wars today to assist in weeding out "chiselers" who would turn the G. I. Bill of Rights into a "grab bag."

He told the VFW's 47th annual encampment that the education provisions and on-the-job training were devised to eliminate a dole or bonus and that early confusion had led to public distrust.

"If we are to save the G. I. bill from repudiation . . . if we are to spare the veteran indignities in his difficult search for adjustment . . . if we are to hold to the promises we made while he was still under fire," Bradley said, "then as veterans we must work to keep our own house in order."

Bradley said a congressional amendment was passed when "we saw the program fall in danger of becoming a financial free-for-all . . . saw it being used in a manner totally alien to the intent of the G. I. bill."

Many discrepancies have been corrected through that amendment, he said, but "obviously you know of situations which may still be unsatisfactory.

"In that event, I have the jump on you. For every one that you can name, I will call out two."

In citing the need for opportunities for veterans, Bradley said it was necessary to clean out the chiselers so honest employers will have no hesitation in hiring veterans for training, and the veteran himself can enroll without charges of having accepted a dole or trick bonus.

Bradley said the veterans' hospitals had been improved so that several already were the equal of any in the nation—and "this year we'll make (the service) second to none in the world."

Utah Plans Exhibit of Adobe Cabin, Modern Home.

SALT LAKE CITY—(U.P.)—Visitors to Utah's 1947 Centennial exposition will have a chance to contrast the log adobe cabins of the Mormon pioneers with the latest in modern homes.

The pioneer cabins, including Utah's first house erected shortly after Brigham Young and his followers arrived here July 24, 1847, are on display on Temple square in downtown Salt Lake City.

The modern home will be constructed soon by Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Matson in a residential district. The house will be open to the public, but will also serve as a residence for the Matsons and a model laboratory for domestic science classes from the University of Utah.

KROGER was hatched as one small store in Cincinnati in 1882.

It grew into 2,600 stores in 18 states because B. H. Kroger, the founder, was an unusually good, economical storekeeper, and he saw that with many stores he could buy and sell things for less money than with one little store.

In America, any little store can become a big store or a group of stores, if it finds ways to give folks better things for less money.
